Russia Says Way Paved by West For Recent War

Claims Contained in Soviet Reply To U.S. Publication of Documents

MOSCOW, Feb. 9 (AP).—Russia charged tonight that United States dollars and British and French diplomacy paved the way for the World War.

An official Soviet statement said the Western Allies' dealings with conquered Germany after the Great War gave Adolf Hitler the armed strength and diplomatic security he needed to launch the World War.

These facts, Russia said, are contained in "important documents which were captured by Soviet troops during the smash-up of Hitlerite Germany."

"Publication of these documents will help present the true picture of how Hitler's aggression and the World War were in reality prepared and developed," the statement said.

The statement was the Russian reply to the United States State Department's publication, January 21, of 260 documents captured in Germany and dealing with Russian-German relations prior to the World War.

AGREED ON POLAND

(The documents said Germany and Russia agreed to partition Poland between them. They said further that Russia backed Germany heavily against the West and agreed with Hitler that the United States, as well as Great Britain, should be shut out of Europe, Asia and Africa. They were published only by the United States.)

The Russian statement, issued by the Soviet Information Bureau, charged:

1. A "golden rain of American dollars . . . fertilized heavy industry for Hitler Germany and in particular her war industry."

2. "It was the billions of American dollars invested by overseas monopolies in the war economy of Hitler Germany that re-established Germany's war potential and placed in the hands of the Hitler regime the weapons it needed for aggression."

3. Britain and France engineered a non-aggression pact between Germany and Poland in 1934 which was important "in the preparation of German aggression."

The Russians, who entitled their statement "Falsifications of History," said the Russian press would carry it tomorrow.

The Soviet declaration dealt extensively with events following the Great War, paying special attention to the Dawes reparations plan for Germany.

Speaking of the United States State Department's publishing of Nazi documents, the Russian statement said:

CLAIMS FABRICATION

"In order to justify in some way before world public opinion the unilateral publication of this collection of unverified and arbitrarily picked-out records by a Hitlerite official, the British and American press fabricated and circulated an explanation according to which 'the Russians rejected a proposal of the West to publish jointly the full account of Nazi diplomacy.'"

The Russian statement added:

"The statement of Anglo-American circles does not correspond to fact."

The statement also said the allegation that the Soviet Government had refused to take part in preparing the publication of German archive material was false.

Injunction Threatened to Stop Airpark Development

—Colonist Photo.

INSTRUCTIONS have been issued to the legal representative of Ward 3 Ratepayers' Association to apply for an interim injunction against the City of Victoria to halt work on the Memorial Airpark at Gordon Head, Rex Hardie, member of the association executive, announced yesterday. Permission was given by the city to the Memorial Airpark Association to begin development of runways after a Department of Transport notice that unless work was started by February 15, permission would be given for erection of two radio towers. A bulldozer, shown above, started work on Saturday. Ald. F. G. Mulliner, chairman of the City Council aviation committee, said yesterday Victoria would await further developments. Ex-Alderman B. J. Gadsden has deposited a $500 bond with the city to meet the costs of any legal action. Mr. Hardie said the injunction was being sought on the grounds that the city was permitting violation of Saanich zoning by-laws.

Delay New School Plans Province Urges District; Cites High Building Cost

Fairey Suggests Postponement Of Greater Victoria's Program

Suggestion that the Greater Victoria School Board should postpone its five-year building program has been made by Col. F. T. Fairey, deputy minister of education. He said, however, the department would agree to bear 50 per cent of the vocational-technical unit at Victoria High School.

First tender offered for construction of the building was $97,000 above the estimate of $150,000 contained in the by-law approved by Greater Victoria ratepayers in June.

"It is my duty to point out to your board," Col. Fairey wrote, "that the Government is not in favor of school boards proceeding with the building of new schools, where the accommodation is not urgently required during the present period of high costs. Therefore your board should seriously consider postponing the building of this unit until building costs are down to a reasonable level.

"I am disturbed," he continued, "about the increase in architect's fees. It seems ridiculous that a building which was assumed to cost $150,000 and for which the architects were satisfied to receive $9,000, should result in the architect receiving an additional $5,000 because of the contractors' price. Some adjustment, therefore, seems to be in order on this item."

Col. Fairey pointed out that in agreeing to pay its share of the cost the department was not passing an opinion on the legality of the board spending more on the building than was outlined in the by-law.

The board yesterday served a formal request on Victoria asking creation of a special fund of $8,140 as its share of $13,278 to be obtained from the various areas within the school district.

T. L. Christie, secretary, noted in a letter to the council that the astronomical dome planned for the technical unit had been deleted with the result that a revised tender of $245,053 had been received. Adding architect's fees of $14,703 (originally estimated at $9,000) brought the total cost to $259,756.

The board expects to get a $74,200 grant from the Federal Government if construction is started before March 31 leaving $185,556 half of which is to be borne by the municipalities and half by the province.

In view of the fact that construction must start before the end of March if the Federal grant is to be obtained, Mr. Christie urged a rapid decision on the board's request for additional money.

Dr. Gayton Receives City Post

Named Successor To Dr. Anderson

J. L. Gayton, B.A., M.D., D.P.H., was appointed Victoria's new medical health officer effective March 1 at a special meeting of the City Council yesterday afternoon. He is now health officer for the Saanich health unit and was selected from among six applicants for the position. Two were doctors and three laymen.

Dr. J. L. Murray Anderson, present health officer, will be released from his duties February 16 to take up his appointment as superintendent of Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Dr. Gayton received his Bachelor of Arts degree at McMaster University, his M.D. from the University of Manitoba and his Diploma in Public Health from the University of Toronto. He spent two years with the tuberculosis division of the Manitoba Department of Health, three years in private practice, and is one of the two examiners in Public Health and Preventative Medicine for the Medical Council of Canada.

DR. J. L. MURRAY ANDERSON

At present he also gives lectures to nurses at Jubilee Hospital in communicable diseases and health.

His appointment will leave a vacancy in the Saanich health district.

Inspection Of Project Not Made

By TOM GREEN
Colonist Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA, Feb. 9.—Veterans' Affairs Minister M. F. Gregg must have been badly confused when he answered Maj.-Gen. George R. Pearkes, V.C., in the House of Commons on January 28, relative to the Braefoot project near Victoria.

The minister told General Pearkes that J. T. Rutherford, Veterans' Land Act director, had been visiting the subdivision, making a personal inspection of the situation, and that he was awaiting his report on his return to Ottawa.

Brig. Rutherford is back in Ottawa, and did not see the Braefoot houses for the reason that he had not gone further than Vancouver. In a conference with Gen. Pearkes on his return, the director also said that he was not familiar with the recommendations of the McCarter-Buzzele-Scott report on this project.

Gen. Pearkes pointed out to the director that the evcidence must be on file in the department's file, and urged that the recommendations of the McCarter-Buzzele-Scott report for a 20 per cent reduction in the cost of the houses to the veterans should be implemented "without further delay."

Further investigation was unnecessary in the light of this report, Gen. Pearkes stated. If, however, the case had to be reviewed again there should be a "really independent committee" appointed with power to act.

Meeting Will Study Natural Resources

First organised attempt at correlation of natural resources utilization and conservation programs will be launched here tomorrow at a one-day resources conference in the Empress Hotel, sponsored by Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney.

Bringing together Provincial and Dominion departments engaged in resources research and administration, as well as University of British Columbia departments and a few private agencies, the conference will be the first of its kind in British Columbia or Canada.

More than 100 delegates to the inaugural conference will consider proposals:

1. To bring together for exchange of views the scientists and administrators responsible for proper use of natural resources.

2. To promote greater collaboration between specialists in various independent yet closely related fields, such as agriculture, fisheries, forestry and mining.

3. To disseminate through panel discussion the view that the various natural resources cannot be considered apart in planning for permanent welfare of the Province; that resources such as soil, water, trees, fish or ores must be considered in relation to each other if orderly development of British Columbia's rich heritage is to be attained.

4. To discuss desirability of holding an annual resources conference of sufficient duration to provide for special technical sessions as well as general meetings on a broad theme.

Premier Byron Johnson will welcome delegates to the first conference at 10 a.m. tomorrow, and remainder of the morning will be taken up by presentation of briefs.

Under chairmanship of Deputy Lands Minister G. P. Melrose, the conference will be turned into a panel discussion at 2:30 p.m.

Communists' Objective Held Disruption, Chaos

Lashing out at Communist elements in British Columbia, Attorney-General Gordon Wismer declared in Saanich last night that their interest in Saanich Provincial by-election was part of their attempt to disrupt and break down the economy of Canada and the United States.

Speaking in support of Arthur J. R. Ash, Coalition candidate, at a largely-attended meeting in St. Aidan's Hall, Mr. Wismer said Communist elements wanted to bring things into a chaotic condition so that it would be easier for the doctrine of the Kremlin to infiltrate.

"Ask yourself why they are supporting the C.C.F.," he said. "Is it not because they know that nothing could be more disruptive in this highly industrialized province than the election of a C.C.F. Government?"

He described as nonsense complaints by C.C.F. candidate Colin Cameron that the Communists were trying to ruin him.

He declared that Communists were supporting Mr. Cameron because they knew it would set this province back 50 years to have a Socialist Government in power. Election of a C.C.F. candidate in the by-election and the threat of socialism it would imply would drive away capital urgently needed for the development of British Columbia.

He warned that the Social Credit Association, "who know they haven't a chance to elect their man," were unwittingly supporting this effort of the L.P.P., for every vote for Social Credit was a vote against Coalition.

Mr. Wismer said the Government had no intention of putting labor into a legislative straitjacket, or of taking away any of labor's hard-won rights; but at the same time it would see that employers got a fair deal.

He said he had found little opposition even amongst labor to Government supervision of strike votes.

Mr. Wismer indicated that chief changes in the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act would be shortening of the time for negotiations between management and labor, and removal of penalties against individual strikers. "I don't believe the ordinary man who strikes because he is told to should be penalized."

Mr. Ash spoke chiefly of the importance of adequate water supply for Saanich and of expansion of electric power facilities for both rural and urban areas.

E. J. T. Woodward also spoke. Meeting was presided over by Saanich Councillor Thomas Alexander.

Shipping Idle In Halifax

HALIFAX, Feb. 9 (CP). — Harry Mathers, president of Acadia Overseas Freighters Limited, Canada's biggest ship firm, said tonight that because of a slump in the freight market two of the company's 10,000-ton vessels, the Shelburne County and Inverness County will be tied up here.

His announcement came after the blackest week-end in 20 years in this port's history. Not a sling moved in or out of any hold of the few ships berthed along the waterfront.

Mr. Mather said the two freighters were all rigged out but had no place to go. He added:

"The freight market is bad all over. Rates have drooped very considerably within the last year while operating costs have increased."

Herbert Woodley, business agent of the Freight Handlers Union, said "in 20 years on the waterfront I've never seen the port die during the Winter season until now."

With freight handlers unable to find work, the total of Halifax's jobless grew to more than 4,500.

Attack on Price Policy Continues in Commons

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 (CP).—A Liberal member told the Commons tonight he believed the Government had made a mistake in not reimposing controls on basic foodstuffs and predicted this step, and the resumption of subsidies, would be necessary.

George Cruickshank, outspoken Government back-bencher from Fraser Valley, declared the mistake had been made by Finance Minister Abbott in not reimposing controls at the time his austerity dollar-saving program was announced in November.

He spoke as the long debate on the Government's proposal for a price-investigation committee lengthened into its second week and apparently neared its end.

As the night session closed, Prime Minister MacKenzie King was in the chamber and waiting for the Opposition to talk itself out and allow him to complete the case for the Government. But a succession of three C.C.F. speakers held the floor in the late stages.

One of these was Mrs. Gladys Strum who declared Government objection to subsidies was "a foolish trend of economy" and said she wished the Government would lear "the nutritional facts of life." Its "foolish saving of money" was destroying the health of children.

The administration earlier drew support from Maurice Hartt (L.-Montreal-Cartier) making one of his few speeches since he succeeded Communist Fred Rose last year.

Controls and subsidies, a major demand of the C.C.F. Party in the prices debate, could lead to national bankruptcy, Mr. Hartt declared. And he told the House he felt the week-long debate on the Government committee proposal was unjustified.

At the House opening, Veterans' Minister Gregg indicated the Government was considering increasing allowances for veterans attending universities and added that a statement would be made as soon as possible in the House.

Program Near On Car Imports

FORT WILLIAM, Feb. 9 (CP).—The president of the Canadian Automobile Dealer Associations, Harry I. Wilson, of Calgary, said in an interview today a definite program is expected shortly regarding importing of automobiles from the United States.

Canadian manufacturers would be given a clear-cut picture of the number of cars available in Canada this year though importing and home manufacture, Mr. Wilson said.

He is conferring with members of the Thunder Bay Automobile Dealers' Association.

Plans to Ask For Evidence

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 (CP). — John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, today decided to place on the Commons order paper a motion requesting production of a copy of the evidence taken before the Duff commission in connection with the dispatch of Canadian armed forces to Hongkong.

Driving Conditions Poor As Storm Mop-Up Starts

Hazardous driving conditions were forecast for today as Vancouver Island centres started mopping-up operations after the worst storm of the Winter.

"Temperatures will be cold," the weatherman predicted. High forecast for Victoria today was 38.

Cold air which brought snow to Southern British Columbia yesterday, has pushed southward and clearing skies are expected to bring colder temperatures.

Schools were closed in one area, power lines were strained under weight of ice and snow and winds, and transportation was hampered on the Island from the two-and-a-half-day storm that brought double trouble with gales and snow.

Several logging camps in the Campbell River area were closed after three to four feet of snow fell. Schools were shut in the Parksville-Qualicum area where six inches of snow was reported. Vancouver Island Utility Co. reported snow and ice conditions on wires were the worst in 13 years.

The gale struck hard at Campbell River during the week-end, tearing down toll lines, knocking out light and water facilities, and preventing boats from docking.

Snowfall in Victoria yesterday caused several accidents but little damage, and no injuries were reported.

Heavier snow in Saanich resulted in two automobiles sliding into the ditch, but no one was injured.

Snowploughs cleared main highways on the Island and bus drivers reported conditions satisfactory yesterday. Eight inches of snow fell in the Cowichan Lake area, but ploughs cleared the side roads.

Marooned for 24 hours at the lodge on Forbidden Plateau when five feet of snow fell in five hours, 29 members of the Y.M.C.A. ski party returned to Victoria by special bus early this morning.

Bright spot in the picture was Port Alberni, one of the few British Columbia communities to report sunshine.

A thin blanket of slush and snow covered the city yesterday when 1.7 inches of snowfall was registered on weather bureau instruments. It melted later, but outlying districts reported a heavier fall.

H. J. Rahlves Leaving Posts

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 (CP).—Resignation of Henry J. Rahlves, of Toronto, as a member of the new Maritime Commission and as president of the Crown-owned Park Steamship Company was announced tonight by Transport Minister Chevrier.

Cellophane Binds Artery In City Heart Operation

A rare and difficult heart operation was performed successfully by Dr. John D. Stenstrom at St. Joseph's Hospital Friday, it was announced yesterday. Dr. D. B. Roxburgh, superintendent, said it was believed this was the first time the operation had been performed in Canada, although several had been carried out in the United States.

It is designed to correct a defective condition of the main artery from the heart. A special cellophane wrapping is placed around the vessel to stimulate the growth of a new wall and to prevent rupture, Dr. Roxburgh explained.

An elaborate preparation was necessary for the operation, he said, and the staff of St. Joseph's was pleased that it was able to provide facilities ordinarily found only in well-equipped special clinics.

Time-Mellowed Rites of New Year To Be Observed by City's Chinese

Chinese in Victoria, along with their countrymen all over the world and at home in China, today will celebrate the Chinese New Year, one of their greatest time for celebration.

According to a spokesman for the city's Chinese community, most of the younger generation observe the Canadian New Year, and festivities here will be quiet, with small family groups taking part and very few fireworks. Some stores will be closed.

The date of the New Year is marked by the first new moon after the sun enters Aquarius. Thus it arrives from January 21 to February 19, this year falling on February 10. The old Chinese custom of marking time by the moon was very convenient for the masses not able to read and some signifigant festivals of the ancient calendar are still observed.

In spite of the Chinese Government adopting the Western calendar, the people make elaborate preparations for this ancient holiday in China. The occasion calls for preparations in which all members of the household participate.

WILL PAY ACCOUNTS

No good Chinese will face the beginning of the year without exerting every effort to pay all outstanding accounts. If he starts out the year in debt, he is disgraced and may be shamed by creditors who pursue him with Chinese lanterns. Only when the debts are duly paid is the head of the family free to enter into the joy of exchanging New Year gifts, fraternizing and feasting with his friends and sharing in the worship according to ancestral customs.

Evidence of the kindly spirit in the family is shown by the donning of new garments, the hanging of new scrolls on the walls and the display of gifts received.

The day itself is usually a simple holiday for family fellowship within the home. All unnecessary work is avoided and food and drink is arranged the previous day.

The family, however, is quite a large group. The oldest male member presides and all his descendents endeavour to be present. Recognition of the gods of heaven and of earth, household goods was included in the ceremony as well as worship before the ancestral tablets. Firecrackers found place as a means of frightening evil spirits.

In olden days, not only candles, but paper money was burned as a sacrifice before the gods.

Following periods of worship the assembled family share a New Year feast, forgive past wrongs, seek good relations for the future and generally exchange New Year wishes.

The celebration of the New Year officially ends at the middle of the first month, with the festive occasion of the Feast of Lanterns, but it is hoped that worthy customs, like our New Year's resolutions, may be continued throughout the year.

Five Nominations Filed for Saanich

NOMINATION papers for all five candidates in Saanich Provincial by-election were filed with Robert Brydon, returning officer, yesterday.

Although official deadline for receipt of nominations will not come until 1 p.m. today, it is not expected there will be any late-comers.

Definitely in the contest to be determined February 23 to fill the seat made vacant by appointment of Hon. N. W. Whittaker to Supreme Court bench are:

Arthur J. R. Ash, Coalition.
Colin Cameron, C.C.F.
Thomas Nixon, Independent Farm Labor.
Major A. H. Jukes, Independent Social Credit.
W. R. Smith, Democrat.

Board to Consider Labor Act Changes

LABOR Relations Board will sit in Victoria on Thursday and Friday to hear representations on proposed changes in the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act, J. P. Hogg, K.C., chairman of the five-man board, announced yesterday.

On completion of hearings, the board will frame recommendations for consideration by the Government in its revision of the act during the coming session of the Legislature. Already it has received some submissions in Vancouver.

Meetings here will be closed, and while proposals will be received from any organizations wishing to be heard, it is not the board's present intention to hold public hearings.

City Building Soars

PICTURE of a steady rising in building activity during the past six years, culminating in a total value of $5,702,405 for 1947, was given yesterday in the annual report submitted to the City Council by J. W. Oosterink, building inspector. This was more than five times the 1942 total of $1,015,962.

Totals for the four intervening years were: 1943, $1,111,188; 1944, $1,752,943; 1945, $3,001,585 and 1946, $5,032,298.

Last year construction was started on 338 homes, 14 duplex dwellings, and two apartment buildings.

Mr. Oosterink noted that "the almost intolerable condition which has prevailed and which continues to prevail with regard to labor and material has in no way been ameliorated."

The increase in building permit fees inaugurated last year brought into the department another $3,337 for the period April to December and the department recorded an overall yearly increase in fees for building, plumbing and wiring permits amounting to $7,730.

Total revenue of the department was $21,387 as against expenditures of $23,370.

Battle Biggest Of Campaign

NEW DELHI, Feb. 9 (AP).—The Indian Army killed 1,900 Moslem attackers Friday in the biggest battle of the Kashmir campaign, a Defence Ministry communique said tonight.

Earlier an army spokesman said the attackers suffered more than 2,000 dead and 2,000 wounded.

Board Recommends Hike Of $2 Daily for Miners

EDMONTON, Feb. 9 (CP).—A board appointed by the Alberta Government to conciliate the strike of approximately 10,000 Alberta and British Columbia coal miners—who have been out since January 13 after failing to agree with operators on a new working agreement—recommended today in a majority report a $2-a-day wage increase, retroactive to December 3.

Trade Minister C. E. Gerhart of Alberta announced the board's findings today. None is binding either on Western Canada's coal mine owners or members of the United Mine Workers of America (C.C.L.).

The board's award, with copies of the minority report, will be sent to the operators and the union, which will be asked to notify the Government as soon as possible whether they accept or reject the findings.

In Vancouver, E. S. H. Winn, industrial disputes commissioner in the coal strike in British Columbia, said he would make no comment on the Alberta Government board's recommendation until he received the full text of their proposals.

IVES REJECTION

The recommendation for a retroactive wage increase was rejected in a minority report by Mr. Justice W. C. Ives of Calgary, operators' representative on the board.

On five other points, the board agreed unanimously. It decided to reject the employees' request for a seven-cent-a-ton increase in operators' contributions to the welfare fund and to recommend no increase in the current three-cent-a-ton contribution until a board of trustees is established and a policy determined.

The board—consisting of Mr. Justice Ives, G. Fred McNally of Edmonton, chairman, and Chris Pattinson of Edson, Alta., miners' representative—recommended also that the current 40-hour work week be retained; the holiday-with-pay situation remain unchanged except that each employee should receive credit for one day's vacation for each month worked.

The employees' request for abolition of contract work was rejected.

Mine workers now are receiving an average of between $8 and $10 a day. Contract men are paid by the ton or yard. The union asked a $14-a-day rate for all mine workers, retroactive to December 3.

CHANGE CONTRACTS

In his minority report, Mr. Justice Ives recommended a fluctuating bonus equal to the increased cost of living. To protect the public from Winter coal strikes, he recommended also that the termination of coal mining contracts before March 31 in any year be prohibited.

The announcement of the board's findings resulted in a report from Calgary that if union and company officials accept them, a boost of about $1.20 a ton in the price of coal mined in Western Canada is possible.

Alberta and British Columbia coal operators expect to announce their acceptance or rejection of the board's findings following meetings at Calgary Wednesday and Thursday.

Investment Boom Contributing To Dollar Shortage Says Howe

HALIFAX, Feb. 9 (CP). — Trade Minister Howe told the Halifax Board of Trade tonight that Canada now is in the middle of the biggest investment boom in her history but "we are consequently forced to consider it, however desirable it may be from other points of view, as one of the chief contributors to our United States dollar shortage."

He said that last year the Dominion invested $2,300,000,000 in buildings, machinery and capital improvement and that estimates indicated Canadian business and Government planned to spend in 1948 $2,700,000,000 in capital improvements, an increase of 17 per cent over 1947.

He added:

"The present wave of investment is fundamentally encouraging. It is concrete evidence of the industrial growth of Canada. It is a tangible indication of our new position in the world trading system. It is a tribute to the speed and success with which we converted our wartime industrial machine to peacetime purposes.

"But—and an important but—this investment is involving unprecedented amounts of United States dollar imports. Almost every capital project in Canada has, directly or indirectly, a United States dollar content.

"On the average, every dollar spent on construction and machinery in Canada involves some 30 cents in United States exchange.

"Such programs as low-cost housing and industrial development designed to produce United States dollars will have a high priority, but much of our current investment for commercial, service and amusement purposes can and must be deferred.

"This applies to Government public works, at all levels of Government, which are not urgently essential in the public interest."

Inquest Today In Hannah Death

An inquest will be held into the death of Patrick Hannah, 2514 Rock Bay Avenue, at 10 a.m., today at the B.C. Funeral Parlors, it was announced yesterday by Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner.

The body of the former resident of Ganges, Salt Spring Island, was found Thursday morning at the foot of a ten-foot bank near the Johnson Street Bridge, police reported.

Milk Increase Decision Unlikely Today

Action on Provincial Milk Board's recommendation for a two-cent increase in milk prices in controlled areas is unlikely to be taken by the Government today.

Agriculture Minister Frank Putnam said yesterday the Government, at its regular Cabinet meeting this morning, will receive representations from Vancouver Island and Mainland producer groups.

Distributors, who also are asking an increase in their spread, are not expected to approach Cabinet today, as their submissions already are in.

Mr. Putnam said the Government probably would take some time to consider the whole situation before coming to a decision.

E. C. Carr, one-man board, recommended a week ago that prices be increased two cents a quart in Victoria, Duncan, Nanaimo and Vancouver, greater proportion of the increase to go to producers.

City Police Court

Bernise Saunders pleaded guilty in city police court yesterday to a charge of vagrancy and was remanded until today for sentence.

Eric and Mildred Gray, of Vancouver, were remanded until Wednesday when they appeared in city police court on a charge of breaking and entering Pritchard's clothing store, 1227 Government Street, on Thursday. The couple pleaded not guilty.

Thomas B. Derry, 2505 Cook Street, was fined $40 when he pleaded guilty to a charge of dangerous driving on Quadra Street. His driver's licence was suspended for one month. A similar charge against George Lamb was dismissed.

For failing to wear his chauffeur's badge in a conspicuous position while operating his taxi, Allan W. Fairburn, 147 South Turner Street, was fined $10.

Funeral Planned For G. C. Ozard

Funeral services for George Cozens Ozard, 59, who died suddenly at the family residence, 1002 Caledonia Avenue, on Sunday, will be held at Sands' Mortuary Wednesday at 1:30 p.m., Rev. George Biddle officiating.

Connected with the custome department here for 35 years, Mr Ozard lived in Victoria for 38 years. He was a member of the St. Andrew's Masonic Lodge No. 49, A.F. & A.M., and the Victoria Rotary Club.

Rotarians Plan Charter Flight

For the first time—weather permitting—Trans-Canada Air Lines will conduct a special charter flight to Vancouver, carrying 21 members of the Victoria Rotary Club.

Members of the service club, to attend a joint meeting with the Vancouver Rotary Club, will leave Patricia Bay this morning at 9:20, and leave the Mainland airbase at 8 tonight.

It marks the first time such an arrangement has been made through the local airline office, but it is expected other service clubs and organizations will make similar flights in the future.

British, French Press Praise Mackenzie King

PARIS, Feb. 10 (Tuesday) (Reuters). — The French Conservative newspaper Le Pays today welcomes the admission of the Prime Minister Mackenzie King to the Academy of Political and Moral Sciences to join "other foreigners of mark who have preceded him in this illustrious body, Alfonso XII of Spain, Albert I of Belgium and the last, well and truly living Mr. Winston Churchill."

The Canadian Prime Minister was admitted to the academy Monday.

The Prime Minister, Le Pays says, "Is a great friend of our country. In welcoming the man who governs the descendants of the Frenchmen who settled in the past on the banks of the St. Lawrence, the Academy of Moral Science has paid homage to a great character."

MANCHESTER, England, Feb. 10 (Tuesday) (Reuters).—A tribute to the work of Prime Minister Mackenzie King in the field of industrial relations was paid today by the influential Manchester Guardian.

Referring to the Prime Minister's book "Industry and Humanity," The Manchester Guardian editorial said:

"It is reissued today and eminently worth reading.

"His suggestions for the sensible treatment of disputes have greatly influenced Canadian legislation.

"There is a good deal in Canadian experience from which we in this country might profit."

Abstinence From Alcohol Urged In Lent by Cardinal McGuigan

TORONTO, Feb. 9 (CP).—A call to all Roman Catholics of the Toronto Archdiocese to abstain from alcoholic beverages during Lent was made Sunday by James Cardinal McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto. Catholics said it was the first time that the point had been so strongly stressed in the traditional Lenten appeals.

Reports from elsewhere in the Dominion indicated that it was not general. The call from His Eminence however was read in Toronto Catholic pulpits in the form of a pastoral letter and was published in The Canadian Register, church organ, drawing expressions of approval from leaders of other denominations.

It was made almost on the eve of Ash Wednesday, which this week opens the Lenten season.

His Eminence declared in the message that "the ever-increasing consumption of such (alcoholic) beverages, together with the growth and spread of so-called 'social drinking,' are the causes of serious injury to individuals and to families."

He declared further: "The story of sin and misery directly attributable to excessive indulgence in intoxicants shows the need for united, earnest effort to better the situation."

At Winnipeg, Most Rev. Gerald Murray, Archbishop of Winnipeg, said no specific appeal to abstain entirely from alcohol in Lent had been made to Winnipeg Catholics. Church officials at Calgary said also that while advice against overindulgence during Lent might be given there, no specific order regarding drinking would be made. The same sentiment was expressed at Edmonton and Vancouver, where the appeals were particularly to youth.

Fierce Gale Piles Up Costly Toll

A fierce Winter gale that battered the Pacific Northwest coast and took the lives of five seamen finally blew itself out last night, leaving in its wake a toll of damage in southern British Columbia from ice, snow and wind.

Winds up to 75 miles an hour and mountainous seas imperilled some 160 men aboard eight vessels, grounded a freighter, swamped and sank a fishing boat and damaged others.

Eight persons died in the Northwest, three in traffic accidents blamed on the weather. Vancouver counted 98 road accidents and two inches of snow in lower areas, a foot in high regions and in the Fraser Valley. Washington State received as much as 22 inches of snow in some places. Communication lines were hard hit.

The driving winds did not cause any serious trouble to shipping in the immediate Victoria area. Officials of the C.P.R. and Black Ball Ferry Line said their schedules were maintained.

Tugboat fleet of Island Tug and Barge, Ltd., sought refuge in sheltered waters and by yesterday morning were back to normal operations.

Two tugs and an airplane were scheduled at dawn today to resume search for a scow that was lost in Smith Sound, at the northern tip of Vancouver Island, during the week-end with a $100,000 paper cargo.

The scow, loaded with about 1,000 tons of paper, half of it newsprint, broke loose from the tug Dola Saturday and sank. The tug, which with the tug Wireless was at one time reported in difficulty, was en route to Vancouver from Ocean Falls.

Four fishing vessels, a small Puget Sound mail boat and the tankers Tidewater and J. L. Hanna were battered by the storm, and the freighter Colorado grounded in Coos Bay, Ore. It was refloated.

Of the five seamen drowned, three were Canadians whose fishing boat sank off Northern Vancouver Island. Two others lost their lives in separate marine accidents off Oregon.

Six members of the 82-foot fishing boat Fearless were rescued by a Coast Guard cutter eight miles off Tillamook Rock, Ore., after they survived a night-long battle with seas that swept away the pilot house, flooded the engine room and injured one sailor. Injuries were numerous among fishermen and sailors in the storm area.

The gale, born off the Aleutians last Thursday, reached full fury Saturday and early Sunday before subsiding yesterday.

Rites Arranged For A. Gillespie

Funeral services for Alexander Gillespie, 67, well-known Victoria businessman and sportsman, who died early yesterday morning at Royal Jubilee Hospital, will be held Wednesday, the cortege leaving the residence, 1972 Fairfield Road, at 3 p.m. for St. John's Church.

Rev. George Biddle will officiate at the service at 3:15 p.m. Interment will be in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery. Hayward's Funeral Chapel is taking care of arrangements.

Playing cricket, golf and Rugby, Mr. Gillespie played for the Victoria representative Rugby team from 1898 to 1907 and was a member of the all-Canadian team which toured England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales in 1902 to 1903. He was a member of the Union Club and the Victoria Golf Club.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Gillespie of "Highwood," Moss Street, he was educated at Loretto School in Scotland. He returned to Victoria and joined the Bank of Montreal in 1898, then in 1902 left to study surveying.

Mr. Gillespie was qualified as a British Columbia land surveyor in 1907 and practised until 1913 when he took up farming in East Sooke. He joined the firm of Gillespie Hart & Co. Ltd. in 1929 and was appointed manager in 1932. He retired from active participation in the firm one year ago, but retained his directorship.

Surviving are his widow, Rose Ellen, at the family residence; four daughters, Mrs. J. W. Anderson, Hongkong; Mrs. G. B. Barnes, Crofton, V.I.; Mrs. G. Galsford, in England, and Mrs. Herbert Hammond, also of Crofton.

Five brothers and one sister also survive: They are G. K. Gillespie, Cowichan Lake; D. L. Gillespie, Toronto; R. D. Gillespie, Hongkong; S. M. Gillespie, Kelowna, B.C.; E. P. Gillespie, Victoria; and Mrs. F. M. Colbourne, Surrey, England.

Number Leaving School Early Blamed on Economic Inequality

Proof of serious economic inequality in British Columbia is shown in the number of children who leave school before completing their education, according to Ernest E. Winch, M.L.A. for Burnaby, who addressed a C.C.F. meeting at Gordon Head Hall last night.

Mr. Winch said 14,000 children leave school at Grade VIII, 10,000 at Grade IX, 8,000 at Grade XI, and 4,500 at Grade XII.

And yet, he pointed out, surveys show that the earning capacity of a high school graduate is twice that of one who only reaches Grade VIII, while the earning capacity of a university gradate is three times that of the elementary school graduate.

"Failure to establish a sound economic basis upon which all children could receive a thorough education works not only a hardship on the child, but causes a serious loss to society as a whole.

"The same situation is to be found in the matter of medical education in the province. Premedical students, disappointed and disheartened by the Government's failure to establish a medical college, were drafting into other occupations for which they had neither the ability nor the liking," Mr. Winch declared.

MEDICAL DEFECTS

Mr. Winch said that 78,000 children, more than half of the school population, suffer from defective eyesight, hearing, teeth or diseased tonsils.

The speaker quoted military medical authorities who had reported that the great majority of military rejections had been due to neglected childhood. Mr. Winch gave as reasons for this situation high costs of medical and hospital services and inadequate medical and hospital facilities which were preventing the great mass of the population from receiving proper attention.

"And yet, we have had the Health Insurance Act lying idle on the statutes since 1936," stated Mr. Winch.

Colin Cameron, C.C.F. candidate, challenged Rev. William Hills to debate with him in public the issues of the campaign.

Mr. Cameron said he issued the challenge as a result of a radio broadcast on Saturday, when Rev. Hills launched a "personal attack" against the C.C.F. candidate and C.C.F. policies.

The C.C.F. candidate also challenged Premier Byron Johnson to take the public into his confidence on the health service issues and state officially and unequivocally whether or not his Government actually intends to introduce hospitalization legislation when the Legislature meets.

Councillor George Rudd was chairman of the meeting.

Sawlog Cut Eclipses All Figures

Eclipsing all previous records, British Columbia's sawlog cut last year fell just short of the four-billion feet mark, and showed a gain of approximately 35 per cent over the cut in 1946.

Figures released by the Forest Service yesterday place the 1947 sawlog scale at 3,991,603,707 feet board measurement, compared with 2,964,975,700 in 1946, year of the big strike in the lumber industry.

Value of the cut has not yet been computed, but is estimated in the vicinity of $220,000,000.

Decreases appeared in totals under other types of measurement, however. Lineal footage of poles and piles dropped from 68,049,010 in 1946 to 44,777,030 last year; firewood from 158,217 cords to 134,979, though hewn ties total rose to 592,923 from 503,704.

Fir led again in the year's sawlog scale, totaling 1,611,638,470 f.b.m., with hemlock next, 816,311,681, and cedar third, 718,153,798. Spruce cut was 384,863,551 f.b.m., balsam, 241,000,117, and larch, 80,266,666.

Totla cut in December was 274,926,691 feet, as against 208,285,514 in the corresponding month of 1946.

Teacher-Board Decision Soon

Decision of the board arbitrating the dispute over wages and experience credits between the Greater Victoria school board and the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association may be handed down by Wednesday noon, it was learned yesterday.

The four-day hearing closed Saturday night.

The teachers contend that those coming to Victoria from outside points in the Province should get full credit for previous experience while the school board wishes to give them only partial credit. Certain revisions in the salary schedule are also under dispute.

Alan Baker is chairman of the arbitration board with C. D. Ovans as the teachers' representative and Arnold Edmunds representing the Greater Victoria school board.

Eastern Arctic Recommended For That "Penned-In" Feeling

The fellow who wrote the popular song "Give Me Land, Lots of Land," should go straight to Canada's Eastern Arctic.

The area makes up one-third of the land area of Canada but is inhabitated by only 200 white people, Dr. J. Lewis Robinson, associate professor of the department of geology and geography at the University of British Columbia, told a meeting of the Victoria University Extension Association in Victoria High School last night.

There are about 8,000 Eskimos there, Dr. Robinson said, but they are nomadic and wander over the wastes looking for food.

The address, illustrated by Technicolor slides, explained problems and possibilities of Canada's Northland from the progressive McKenzie River basin, Prince Edward Island near the Magnetic Pole, to icy Hudson Bay.

General Sobriety Main Object Of Alcohol Education Program

British Columbia's alcohol education program cannot "by any stretch of the imagination be described as a program of 'sane drinking' or 'how to hold your liquor,'" Harold L. Campbell declared Sunday in reply to criticism of the Province's program.

The Provincial director of alcohol conference here Sunday on alcohol education. He continued:

"Drinking — moderately, intelligently, sanely or any other way — is not a worthy habit for young people to adopt. This is a basic principle in alcohol education. The program will inform young people of the scientific and well-established facts concerning the use of alcohol. These facts will stand on their own feet, and our young people, acting on this information and on the advice of their parents, plus their own observations, will reach the right conclusions.

"On the other hand," he declared, "we cannot teach that every person who takes a drink at any time is a moral reprobate. If we did so the young person would not believe us, because it isn't true, and it would be at variance with what he sees around him."

Outlining the various methods of education to be applied in school illustrating the effect of alcohol, the educational director said that the objective of the program was

Needed Airport Link

There will be considerable satisfaction that the Dominion and Provincial Governments have agreed to proceed with the construction of an up-to-date highway through Saanich between this city and the terminal airport at Patricia Bay without delay on a shared basis of costs. According to the announcement made yesterday by Premier Johnson after a conference with Hon. C. D. Howe, the Dominion and Province will each bear half of the cost of the improved highway, surveys for which are to be commenced within a month by the Provincial Department of Public Works. Both Mr. Howe and Mr. Johnson are on record now that this work will be done expeditiously. It is needed.

It has long remained anomalous that businessmen can fly between Vancouver Island and the Mainland in 25 minutes, but that the time taken in getting to and from the airports in both terminals is longer than the flight itself. In Victoria there has been up to the present no help for that. Patricia Bay, where several million dollars has been invested by the taxpayers of Canada, cannot be moved. Nor is there any equivalent site closer to the city that would be suitable for the purpose, even if the public's investment were not to be considered. So the improved road link is a necessary solution, and a timely one.

The plan now is to survey the existing route to see where realignment, cut-offs and widening can be carried out so that an improved modern highway capable of handling fast and heavy traffic can be constructed. The Province will commence this survey before the end of March. After it is completed there will be no reason why the work cannot be put in hand and carried out promptly. It should be possible to cut the travel time between the city and the airport in half. If that is done, the highway would pay for itself many times over in the future.

Milk Prices

A recommendation by the Provincial Milk Board that there be a further two-cent increase per quart in the price of milk sold to the consumer in British Columbia is said to be awaiting the decision of the Provincial Cabinet. While the waiting period is on, the Provincial Department of Agriculture might study with some profit what was brought out in Ontario's Royal Commission on milk in 1947. There it was held that any controlled price should be set at the producer level, and that free competition should not be blocked by attempting to say what the consumer by public edict must pay.

The relevant part of the Ontario commissioner's report is to be found on Page 2 of the report, which reads, in part, as follows:

"Price-Fixing — With respect to price-fixing, until such time as an effective producer organized marketing scheme can be developed, the evidence has convinced me that some responsible authority must fix and enforce the price to be paid to the primary producer for milk to be used for the fluid market and for concentration.

"Such authority must have knowledge of costs of production and statistics with respect to general business levels, and prices and wage indices. I have come to the conclusion that the Milk Control Board should be in a position intelligently to set such prices by arbitration, or failing this, be able to advise the Government as to a proper price structure. Up to the present time the Milk Control Board, because of its lack of essential statistical data, does not appear to have been in this position.

"At the consumer level, I am convinced that distributors must be compelled to compete on price. An over-riding authority should be vested in the Board to fix prices if competition shows undesirable results."

Any price control scheme which eliminates competition will not serve the best interests of the public, nor of the dairy industry itself. As consumers will see it, they are paying a good deal for milk now.

Atomic Control

A news dispatch says that the inhabitants of a small island lying off the coast of Tunisia have never heard of the atomic bomb. They are perhaps fortunate; it might have been better if the rest of the world had not either. This is not to voice an idle regret, for what is done is done and cannot be recalled. It was in the nature of things, and of man, that an atomic bomb had to come into being, no doubt. The regret is that no common agreement can be reached about the future of this too lethal instrument of war. Two years' discussion of international atomic control has been fruitless, and so far the prospects of agreement are not bright.

There are two points of view, as divergent as all the other questions that have stymied the United Nations on major issues. Russia insists that the atomic bomb be outlawed and present stocks destroyed before any system of controls is established. At the same time she refuses to agree that international inspectors should be allowed free access in her territory to check atomic operations. On the other hand, the United States and the Western nations are opposed to any surrender of the bomb until tight international controls are established.

Viewing the matter dispassionately, it seems clear that if there were to be no strict international control, with inspectors free to pursue their inspection at will, there could be no guarantee that some nation was not manufacturing the bomb in secret. If members of the United Nations really wanted this weapon outlawed they would have to be prepared to concede sovereignty of inspection. A refusal invites the suspicion that the objecting nation wants other nations inspected and disarmed, but not itself.

That is about how the matter stands at present in the impasse. Whether or not Russia will recede from her postion is problematical. Until she does it may be taken for granted that the United States will not give up the advantage she possesses at the present time. The course of events may solve the question, but meantime there is understandable pessimism, and no progress being made upon one of the gravest problems the United Nations have to face.

Privilege—Not Charity

Charity, it is said, begins at home. Of the response in the past to the needs of the Queen Alexandra Solarium it must be said that Victorians have taken this injunction closely to heart. The Mill Bay institution has received the generous support of the community, not alone through special campaigns but also year in and year out. It is that knowledge that ensures the success of the "February Shower of Dimes." It would be strange indeed if it did not. There are few benevolences, if that word can be used in this instance, which give more comfort to the giver than the one which may enable some child to overcome a grave physical difficulty.

The Solarium has not escaped the economic factors that have applied elsewhere during recent years. Costs of operation have gone up, unavoidably in so far as the institution is concerned. The demand on the services rendered is constantly increasing. In order that the work may go on, to the profit and well being of its young inmates, enough money must be found. That is why there is a special urgency about this year's "Shower of Dimes" appeal. It is the annual occasion when this area has another opportunity to come to the aid of the Solarium, and this year the need is more urgent than ever. No fixed goal has been set, other than the maximum generosity of which Victoria and district is capable.

A dime is not much to ask, although one hopes the slogan is not taken too literally. There are few but can themselves donate a shower of these coins, small in value but powerful in effect when put together. In any case the "Shower of Dimes" emphasizes the collective nature of the appeal, which is to everyone. If no sum is too large to give, neither is any sum too small. Even a dime will contribute to the ray of sunshine that gleams when, as may be the case, another child is helped to walk. To give to the Solarium is not charity; it should be a privilege which each of us should be anxious to secure to ourselves. Contribute to the "Shower of Dimes" as generously as possible.

A Double Loss

Greater Victoria sustained a double loss this week in the passing of two prominently known businessmen, both of whom had devoted the better part of a lifetime to the community. One was Mr. Alexander Gillespie, a former all-star athlete, who a year ago retired from active participation in the firm of Gillespie, Hart & Company, Ltd.; and the other was Mr. George C. Ozard, for thirty-five years connected with the Canadian Customs and a valued member of the Rotary Club of Victoria. Both men were widely known and respected, and their passing will leave a sad gap in the community. To the relatives of both families will be extended the sincere sympathy of their many friends.

Seen in Passing

This business of asking the taxpayers to make good the costs of inflation to one or other section of the public runs out to an absurdity in the end—that point at which all sections of the public will be safeguarded and guaranteed by the taxpayers, which is to say themselves. Meanwhile, to bonus some because they happen to hold public posts, and not others because they do not, is discrimination without warrant under any tax law.

A Fire at Night

A man should kindle once a year
A fire after dark and peer
Across his little world of light
Into the faces of the night . . .

And as he tends the sudden shoots
Of fire, he can feel the roots
That grow from him and reach out far
Till their tendrils clutch a star.
He feels the safety of the sky
Curved above him cold and high.
He comprehends eternal life
Keen before him, like a knife
Between him and the silence going
Beyond the reach of any knowing.

It is good to stand with flame
By the gulf that has no name.

Out of Harmony

Frank M. Kelley

On the very same day recently, coast newspapers carried stories which could hardly be called "glad tidings." Who is to blame for such conditions as the news columns revealed, is neither here nor there; but could be very properly attributed to the people of the country as a whole. Nor can any single political party, no matter what its policy or ideology, provide the remedy. The situation is really something to engage the serious thinking of all the citizens of the country, irrespective of party loyalties.

In a column of one paper a Canadian Press dispatch stated that more than one hundred organizations, mainly industrial, have applied for and received approval for the admission of a large number of European immigrants to Canada.

Some of the organizations, the story continued, require as many as two thousand and more workers. These included the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Ontario Power Commission, big construction corporations, pulp, paper, lumber and clothing industries, the total approvals for admission totaling more than twenty thousand.

The other story had to do with seven young Canadian-born youths who had managed to cross the border, seeking employment in the United States, but could give no satisfactory explanations when charged with illegal entry after being "picked up." There was nothing criminal in this desire to jump the international fence and seek sustenance in the greener-appearing fields of U.S. opportunity, so they were sent home and told to stay there.

POOR PUBLICITY

Maybe some of those boys will try again, possessed, as they no doubt are, with an urge to find gainful employment with prospects of advancement. But the land of their origin didn't receive very favorable publicity when they told newspapermen that "there was no chance for a young fellow to get anywhere in Canada."

That, of course, was possibly a natural reply to questions put the lads before they were deported; but no different, one can imagine, than that which the thousands of Canadians who enter the United States legally every year reply when asked their motives for migrating. Obviously, the desire is to better themselves; and the record of ambitions achieved south of the Canadian-U.S. border is one which is ever calling to graduates of our universities, as well as to men of the skilled crafts.

This drain on Canada's manpower, its really greatest resource, has been going on for a century now; and if the facts were available would undoubtedly show there are more people of Canadian origin in the forty-eight United States than there are in Canada; and if there were no quota restrictions the number leaving would be legion.

No doubt this problem of conserving Canada's educated and trained youth has given the powers-that-be some concern over the years; but it seems this country should be able to devise ways and means which would at least aim at making it a more desirable place to obtain a living in than any other.

Official Canada has been boasting of this land's lavish resources for ever so long. Government heads are close to the truth when they point with pride to the possibilities for the farmer, the fisherman, the miner and the lumberman; but with all the talk, the past fifty years have not been at all spectacular in development; and if we don't hurry up what one Canadian statesman really believed would come to pass is going to prove so much wasted breath.

NOT IMPRESSIVE

When Sir Wilfrid Laurier stated forty-eight years ago that "the twentieth century belonged to Canada," he had every reason for making such a statement. For some reason or other, however, probably due to the facts that we have never had a really united Canada or a real national complex, the difference in Canada's population status over a period of fifty years has not been impressive or inspiring.

The wealth of the United States came mainly out of the ground, or of it. The woodsman felled, the farmer ploughed and the miner delved, and between them made possible industries which have made it the Mecca of youth. Canada possesses great natural resources, too. If there could be wide development of her resources and the raw material directed to domestic processing and manufacturing plants instead of shipping it away it could mean a lot of industry, the development of which might well be expected to make young Canadians more content with their own land and create an eagerness to assist in its growth. It looks today as if a leader with vision and courage could still carry Canada a long way before 2,000 A.D. takes over, fifty-two years hence. There's not much harmony in a situation which brings workers from Europe to work in the woods while young Canadians leave the country searching for jobs in Washington lumber camps.

The Anomaly of the War-Crimes Trials

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

Every time another set of German war criminals comes up for trial I find myself getting very angry. Field Marshal Johannes Blaskowitz escaped the farce by committing suicide. But Field Marshal Ritter von Leeb and others are facing Brig. Gen. Telford Taylor, chief prosecutor, under the usual indictments of "conspiring to wage aggressive war" and "the unlawful use of war and its abuses."

* * *

What makes me angry and the trials a farce is not that there is post-facto justice, but that though three years have elapsed since the war, there is still no law against waging any kind of war. There are no conventions of war. There is no definition, even, of aggression. And all the unwritten laws of nations dating from more civilized centuries are being abused every minute.

* * *

When the first of these trials opened, the United States Army was already in possession of the documents pertaining to the Russo-German pact. They proved that Russia actively participated in the conspiracy to conquer and divide Poland, the Baltic states and Rumania, and share the spoils of the British Empire. They proved that Russia congratulated Hitler on the conquest of the Low Countries and France. Yet we sat side by side with the Russians on the prosecuting bench, while Germans were tried for exactly and specifically these crimes.

Now three years have elapsed, and the United Nations never has defined aggressive war or preparation for it, or war conventions or abuses, or created a single law against any kind of war, or a workable supreme court, or any enforcement agencies. On the day the new trials opened, Thomas K. Finletter, chairman of the President's air policy committee, noted this, and that the U.N. charter has all the necessary machinery to create a world law and enforcement agencies.

But it also has the veto.

* * *

Meanwhile, German scientists are assisting both Russia and the U.S. to develop more hideous weapons of mass destruction; President Truman calls for universal military training; atrocious civil wars are raging in India, Greece, China, and threatening in the Middle East—all among member states of the U.N. As for crimes "against the conventions of war," Russia, who never signed The Hague conventions, is—at this moment—violating one of them by retaining millions of prisoners for forced labor, and has revived its international party whose declared purpose is "to wage a decisive war against the whole bourgeois world."

The same newspapers that reported the opening of the new trials made public a survey by the editors of "Jesuit Missions" declaring "systematic looting, torture, confiscation, and 'thought' persecution are being conducted by Communists in North China with a view of annihilating Chinese Christians, who number 3.5 millions."

In Italy, the Prime Minister, under threats of violence during the forthcoming elections, has been compelled to decree the banning of private armies. In India Gandhi has been assassinated. And in Germany, the forced retention of war prisoners has created a surplus of 7,000,000 women and can correctly be called "genocide."

* * *

The U.S. should take the lead immediately to create a world law of nations, a judge, and a policeman, within a fellowship of law-abiding nations — with Russia if possible, without Russia if necessary. Until we have done so, the further trial of professional soldiers and officers not only is post-facto, and itself a violation of The Hague conventions regarding war prisoners, but it rests on no even remote ethical authority. We can send more German officers to the gallows, but we cannot erase from their minds the thought, "though they kill us, nevertheless Hitler's spirit has won."

Observation Car

By G.B.

Bill, the Broad Street Barber, kept up a running fire of talk all morning until the boss could no longer stand it. "Most persons know how to say nothing, but few know when," he complained. . . . A city friend paid the Keating Squire a visit while he was whitewashing the chicken house. "How many coats do you put on?" he asked. "Only two," the squire replied. "I suppose you would call the third coat an overcoat?" the city man quipped. "No, that would be a waste coat," the squire answered. . . . From Inventor Karl: "Research leads me to believe there is something wrong with the law of gravity. When prices go up they stay up." . . "Here it is Tuesday, and I am broke again. I cannot figure out where the money goes," a customer said to Tobacconist Martin. "Thrift to some persons means worrying about what became of last week's pay," Martin chuckled. . . . The creed of safety, from an address at a meeting of the National Safety Council: "In the knowledge that his safety is supreme, man shall live with a body sound and whole to enjoy for a full span of life the rewards of his labor. Women shall know the comfort and the security of familiar steps returning each day from work. Children shall have the blessing of paternal love and interest, unbroken by the tragedy of sudden injury and violent death. The employer, knowing pathetic cripples and silent corpses are no longer the accepted by-product of his enterprises, shall experience a new and gratifying peace of mind." . . . Radio amateurs throughout Canada lost a good friend when Captain W. Collins, of the Medicine Hat fire department was killed while attending a fire. Operators of code and telephone stations kept off the air for 10 minutes the day [illegible] captain was buried. It was [illegible] time that such a Dominion-wide tribute had been organized among the radio fraternity.

Russia Given Italian Subs

ROME, Feb. 9 (AP).—Russia will get two of Italy's modern, long-range submarines, it was announced today.

In all, Russia is to receive 27 warships—including the 18,000-ton battleship Julius Caesar and two cruisers—and 19 auxiliaries under the Italian peace treaty.

The Italian Government made public a list of 65 warships and 62 auxiliaries to be delivered to Russia, France, Yugoslavia, Greece and Albania.

Thirteen warships and 14 auxiliaries were awarded Britain and 14 warships and 12 auxiliaries given to the United States. The United States renounced its share and Britain renounced all but a few motor patrol boats. The renounced craft are being scrapped in Italian shipyards, the material to be used in Italian industry.

Action Pledged On Airport Speed Highway

Provision of a speed highway to link Victoria and Patricia Bay airport will be effected by improvement of the existing highway rather than by construction of a new.

This was indicated here yesterday by Premier Byron Johnson, on his return from Ottawa conferences.

He said construction of a faster highway would be done through realignments, cut-offs and widening of the existing road to reduce traveling time not only to the airport but also to Sidney and North Saanich.

—Work will be embarked upon without delay, with Dominion and province sharing costs equally, Premier Johnson stated. Survey of the route to determine exact requirements and cost will be started before the end of March, and cost of the survey also will be borne 50-50 by the two authorities.

Mr. Johnson said he had been given definite assurance by Trade and Commerce Minister S. D. Howe that this undertaking would not be shelved as a public investment project to be carried out when there was a recession in business. Mr Howe had stated his department was ready and anxious to proceed with the highway as soon as possible.

BOOKS FOR GERMANY

Sir,—The Germans have a very high standard of education and quite young children speak a few words of English, therefore all books would be very welcome and useful to them, particularly under the conditions of misery existing in Germany today. Our aim in Germany is to show the Germans a better way of life.

It is not an easy matter to change the thoughts and habits of a nation in a few years.

A reformed Germany is so vital and important to Europe and posterity that whatever can be done to advance this would be useful.

ROAD SIGNS

Sir,—Will you please allow me sufficient space in your valued paper to offer my sincere gratitude to all who so kindly offered assistance when my car overturned on the Sooke Highway, Sunday, February 1, also for the many thoughtful inquiries by phone. It is at such times one realizes the goodness in one's fellow man. It indeed was a miracle that we all escaped death or serious injury, and it is a disgrace, considering the excessive taxes we pay, coupled with British Columbia's exorbitant licence fee, that the roads (especially on curves) are absolutely unsafe for motorists to travel on; but as usual, an accident has to happen before the "powers that be" wake up and have sand place on the danger spots. May I suggest a sign be placed near the approach of such dangerous, icy curves, warning motorists of the condition of road.

The time used is Pacific Standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

According to Culbertson

(Copyright, 1948, by Ely Culbertson)

One of the many fallacies in old "rules of play" is that 'outside" conditions are not taken into account. Consider, for example, the so-called rule of not finessing for the queen when holding nine cards of a suit. A. P. Sheinwold blasts this notion very neatly in an article in The Bridge World Magazine. He uses this deal, among others:

South, dealer
Both side vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ J 5 3
♥ K 9 7 6
♦ 8 7 4
♣ A J 9

WEST
♠ A K Q 9 6 2
♥ 2
♦ J 9 6
♣ 6 5 2

EAST
♠ 10 7
♥ Q 4 3
♦ Q 10 6 3
♣ 8 7 4 3

SOUTH
♠ 8 4
♥ A J 10 8 5
♦ A K 2
♣ K Q 10

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
One ♥	One ♠	Two ♥	Pass
Four ♥	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opens the king of spades and, when East signals with the ten, continues with the queen and ace of spades. On the third trick East discards a low club and South ruffs.

South's problem is now clear-cut. He has lost two spade tricks, and he must give up a diamond, and therefore the fate of his contract hangs on whether or not he will lose a trick to the heart queen.

Without any pertinent information at hand, it is entirely proper for South to play for a drop of the heart queen in two seats, but in this specific case (and in thousands like it) South has information that should give him better guidance than a mere "rule." He has actually seen that West held six spades to East's two; therefore when South leads the low, exploratory part to the king, and West follows with the deuce, three of West's remaining nine cards are known (spades), whereas East's nine cards, after he follows to the first heart, are completely unknown.

Now when the low heart is led toward the closed hand and East follows low, there is obviously a much better chance that the missing queen is among East's eight unknown cards, and therefore South's correct percentage play is to finesse for the queen rather than to play the ace for a possible drop.

Primate Calls for World Unity; Stresses Need for Steadiness

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 (CP).—Most Rev. George Frederick Kingston, Anglican Primate of All Canada and Archbishop of Nova Scotia, tonight called on the Christian world to unite to solve global problems through the love of God.

In an address before an estimated 1,000 members of the Ottawa diocese and senior Government and foreign officials, the Primate said he had every confidence that Canada will play a great part in world affairs. Her part would not be a selfish one but one which would contribute to world peace.

He gave as the theme of his address three words—steadiness, advance, adventure—"in a world situation such as we face, we need steadiness."

He said the churches of the world would stand ready in the face of the "crisis" but they must exude confidence.

Youth was faced with a call of the church and all it represented—the adventure of living. Youth had answered the call in 1939 nd another faced it now and the Archbishop had "every confidence in the youth of our nation and that they will answer the call."

Turning to the work of the Anglican Communion on world church unity, the Primate declared "we are happy to co-operate with all [illegible] Canadian churches, the Canadian Council of Churches and the World Council of Churches and the work of the Anglican church in them were examples of this co-operation.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King and various Cabinet Ministers attended the pulic function along with John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, the British High Commissioner, Sir Alexander Clutterbuck, the Australian High Commissioner, Hon. Francis M. Forde, and other Commonwealth country representatives.

Experts Feel Canadian Prices Not Likely to Match U.S. Drop

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 (CP).—Government experts in the price field said today they saw little prospect of Canadian retail food prices reacting to the current decline in United States food values, at least until the American rates get closer to the lower Canadian price range.

One source expressed belief the American staples which are on the way down—bread, flour, lard and pork—had gone "away out of line" and that the current decline is nothing more than an adjustment to the levels of other food commodities. Once they reached that full adjustment, the prices could be expected to stabilize.

Others said there will be no reaction on the Canadian food front for the simple reason that Canadian prices are "well below" the American price range in practically everything considered essential to Canadian and American diets.

It was noted that wheat, one of the main factors contributing to the drop in the United States price levels, stiffened at Chicago today and there was a suggestion that this may mean the decline has halted.

But event if the American grocery prices did the unexpected by declining to the Canadian level and going below it there still would be several factors which would keep prices of many of Canadian foods at or close to their present rates.

PRICE FLOOR

These are the Anglo-Canadian food contracts which have the effect of providing a price "floor" for beef, bacon, wheat, eggs and cheese, the main products shipped to Britain under the agreements.

The contract price for bacon, for example, is $36 per 100 pounds or, to put it more simply, 36 cents a pound. This has the effect of keeping the domestic wholesale level at a minimum of 36 cents a pound since if the wholesale price went below that rate farmers automatically would sell all their supplies to the Canadian Meat Board at the contract price for shipment to Britain.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 (AP). — Hog prices plunged to a 16-month low today. Farmers reacting to last week's commodity slump in the United States overloaded the market with offerings. Cattle and sheep also dropped sharply.

Grains, however, made a strong comeback, with corn and wheat closing eight cents higher. May corn finished at $2.21½ to $2.21 a bushel, and May wheat $2.57¼ to $2.56¾.

The recovery was attributed to new buying, some short-covering, and purchasing ahead by mills.

Hog prices slipped $2 to $4 and more a 100 pounds to a top price of $22.25, the lowest since January 6, 1947. Cattle led with decreases of 50 cents to $3 and lambs dropped 75 cents to $1.

Cotton prices fell in New York, and wholesale butter prices there dropped 3¼ cents a pound for top grade.

Retail prices of flour, lard, bacon, steaks and bread continued downward, but the trend was not strong enough to indicate that it was general or permanent.

Clouds are rarely observed more than six miles above the earth.

...Oddities...

ORANGE, N.J., Feb. 9 (AP). — A customer trying to get out of a Central Avenue tavern early today set off a burglar alarm.

The patron told police who arrived post haste he had dozed off and awoke to find himself alone in the tavern. When he tried to open the front door the alarm was sounded.

Police sent him home.

OTTAWA, Feb. 9 (CP). — Don't look now, but War Assets Corporation is trying to sell somebody a bridge.

It's one of those sectional floating bridges used in wartime training of Canadian army engineers—120 feet long with a 25-foot overall width; the bridge is available through the W.A.C. office at Sea Island, B.C. Record time for erecting it is said to be 24 hours.

DECORAH, Ia., Feb. 5 (AP). — How a radio broadcast momentarily was injected into the Sunday sermon of Rev. Daniel O'Sullivan remained a mystery today.

When the strange interruption echoed through St. Benedict's Catholic Church a second time during the sermon, Father O'Sullivan removed from his vestment a small walkie-talkie he was using to amplify his voice. There was no trouble after that. The amplifier apparently had picked up the frequency of some radio station.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP). — A lawyer smashed his right fist into his left palm today in a heated argument to the jury trying his client for assault and larceny.

Flame and smoke spurted from his hand.

As surprised as the jury, he shook loose a burning packet of book matches he had been holding. His blow had started them burning.

The lawyer, Roosevelt Page, was slightly burned on one finger. The jury freed his client ten minutes later.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 9 (AP).—It was a long time between buses, a feminine voice informed Norton Hoskins, police dispatcher, on the phone. So . . .

"I just stole one of your police cars. I got tired waiting for that bus. You'll find your car at 13th and Hardesty."

Following up the tip, police found the vehicle, reported stolen a few minutes earlier from a crime prevention detail of two men while the pair were in a cafe.

The caller neglected to give her name.

Fires Rage Day and Night in Palestine

BETWEEN Jewish Tel Aviv and Arab Jaffa lies no-man's land of Palestine that is most under fire. It is surrounded by snipers of both sides and when shops are fired volunteer fire fighting units fear to enter. As result men of British army such as Bren gunner (left) stand guard against snipers while Jewish and Arab fire fighting services attack flames. In this case it is Jewish shop that has been fired by Arabs and tongues of flames are shooting from ruins. Streets like most in area are lined with rubble.

Moves to Outer London Aiding Planner's Dream

LONDON, Feb. 9 (Reuters).—The inner core of London—six square miles which include badly blitzed areas with an acute shortage of housing accommodation—is rapidly losing its population to suburbs expanding and developing on the fringe of Greater London.

City planners with an eye to the future, are ready and anxious to foster the movement to the country. They have just completed a survey which reveals that during the last eight years, 650,000 Londoners have moved out of the heart of the capital.

In 1939, the six square miles covering the oldest part of London housed 4,013,000 people. The figure now has declined to 3,360,000. The outer fringe, the "country" area between 12 and 25 miles out, housed about 1,886,000 Britons before the war, but now there are 2,178,000.

The intermediate zone from six to 12 miles from the centre, has shown little change, its population increasing only from 3,989,000 to 4,079,000.

The blits and consequent evacuation from damaged buildings, together with the onward movement of a number of industries and trades, have helped bring London nearer the planners' dream. While architects are busy making blueprints for a healthier and more attractive London, the trend of the population is removing one of the planners' biggest problems.

IDEAL DISTRIBUTION

The experts say that 500,000 people must move out of the in-between suburban zone before the ideal population distribution is achieved. The country zone would take another 360,000 Londoners.

The area generally referred to as Greater London covers more than 443,000 square acres. The administration involves a number of city, borough and suburban councils, the County of London and several county authorities which each rule a section of the capital. At the last census in 1931, the population was 8,203,842, but unofficial surveys have placed it now at more than 9,000,000.

Poland Widens Breach With Vatican

WARSAW, Feb. 9 (AP). — The breach between the Communist-led Polish Government and the Roman Catholic Church widened today.

A Government spokesman said no changes were contemplated in Poland's new marriage and divorce laws to meet objections of the church.

The laws had been cited by the Roman Catholic hierarchy in Poland as one of the stumbling blocks to re-establishment of diplomatic relations between the Vatican and the Polish Government.

Those relations were severed in September, 1945, when Poland renounced its concordat with the Vatican. Last year Polish diplomatic representatives sounded out the Vatican on the possibility of resuming relations, but with no concrete results.

The church has been objecting strongly to the new Polish law which recognizes the legality only of marriages performed by civil registrars, although it does not bar church ceremonies.

This objection has led thousands of Catholics to be married in church and to disregard the requirements for a civil ceremony, reliable reports said.

Noted Editor Dies Suddenly

EDMONTON, Feb. 9 (CP).—John Oliver, 53, associate editor of The Edmonton Journal and a veteran of 29 years of newspaper work in this city, died suddenly in hospital today. He entered hospital yesterday suffering from pneumonia.

Mr. Oliver, whose appointment to The Journal post was announced only ten days ago, was a son of the late Hon. Frank Oliver, who founded The Edmonton Bulletin. He was executive editor of The Bulletin until late last month.

He had been city editor of The Bulletin for the last six years and held the post of executive editor only briefly.

Mr. Oliver, a tennis champion, a music composer and a war veteran, covered nearly all major Edmonton newspaper beats during his 29 years at The Bulletin, and reported 15 sessions of the Alberta Legislature for the newspaper his father founded.

Surviving are his widow, the former Rose Barker of Spring Lake Sask., and one son, Frank.

Standardization of Arms Plan Would Revive War Industries

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
A.P. News Analyst

The United States is moving toward something she has never had before, something vital to her position in international affairs—an important peacetime arms industry capable of quick expansion if the need arises.

If Anglo-American plans for standardization of arms are adopted by the Marshall plan countries, the effect would be similar if not so great as that of the Anglo-French arms orders between 1939 and 1941, without which American industry would have had to start almost from scratch when the United States finally did go to war.

Coupled with the 16-power agreement on standardization of important industrial equipment, the program would vastly increase the Anglo-American military potential and give new tone to their voices, which developed traces of falsetto in the frenzy of postwar demobilization.

It would revive such direct war industries as aviation, where production has been cut back to what military men consider a dangerously low level.

MOVEMENT SPREADS

England and the United States already have an arms standardization agreement. England's leading the way is spreading it to Europe.

Most of the Marshall plan countries already buy a big part of their military supplies in the United States and England. Under standardization, diversified orders would not have to be filled piecemeal, and arms manufacturing within the entire group would fall into a correlation pattern. Equipment for the various armies would become interchangeable and thus the armies themselves could be unified for operations if that ever became desirable.

Plans for Western Hemisphere standardization already are under way.

British experts estimate that the program for Europe could hardly accomplish its purpose in less than ten years. But early effects would be immediate and widespread.

REVIVE DEMANDS

When American industry shows signs of tapering off from its postwar expansion to meet demands for consumer goods, which will have an immediate effect on producers of machine tools, revival of the foreign demand would have an important effect on the United States economy. Steel manufacturers would be emboldened to continue their expansion, over which they have been somewhat nervous for fear of decreasing demand.

This overall strengthening of the general industrial as well as the arms-making capacity of the United States would be comparable to the old idea of the importance of a navy "in being." It would be a strong deterrent to anyone with ideas of aggression. For the present, unassailable strength, militarily and economically, seems to be the only positive insurance.

University Shows Largest Deficit

REGINA, Feb. 9 (CP). — The University of Saskatchewan—totaling $179,595.46—was shown today in the University's annual report tabled in the Legislature by Premier T. C. Douglas.

The report said the "unhealthy financial condition" resulted from an abnormal increase in enrolment and a general increase in costs. It warned that commitments in veterans' education and expansion made a reduction in costs impossible and new sources of revenue were needed.

New Spring Styles Shown At Fashion Extravaganza

Style predictions from a leading fashion clinic were displayed at the opening of the "Fashion Extravaganza of 1948" at the Club Sirocco yesterday afternoon. The show, which is being put on by the Hudson's Bay Company, is sponsored by Victoria women's organizations and will continue each afternoon and evening until Friday.

Spring fashion trends noted by Mr. R. Y. Easton of the Hudson's Bay Company, while attending a famous fashion clinic in New York recently were shown and included a smartly-cut navy suit combined with bride's blue coat and the new Watteau shaped hat in navy felt; the latest color combination, midnight blue and emerald green, the ballerina suit in the blue with emerald topcoat; bright red gabardine ballerina suit; brave red Gibson Girl blouse combined with wool skirt in grey with black stripe featuring soft unpressed pleats; and striped moire taffeta formal dress, crinoline style with the new uneven hemline.

WIDE CHOICE IN SUITS

There was a wide choice for the 1948 look in suits. Hobble skirts, pencil slim, split at the front, back or side, vied with full-skirted, swinging ballerinas; coats were short and fitted with peplums, short and boxy, long and fitted featuring the cut-away, in fact a style for every type. There was the same wide choice in coats, plaid shorties striking a new note.

The April Shower fashions were colorful models in corduroy, cohama satin, poplin and faille, all featuring hoods. One particular new model was the safari patterned hooded coat in brown and tan with full back and removable front belt.

NEW SPRING PRINTS

The new handkerchief rippling peplum, side drape, soft pleats, tiered skirt, swallowtail peplum, low back and cape collar were a few of the details noted in the new Spring prints which covered a range of lovely colors.

The "after five" or cocktail dress is definitely longer but otherwise offered the same wide choice in style. Black crepe with bengaline, faille or taffeta trim was popular and the new Bell silhouette with a deep flounce at the hemline drew quite a number of comments.

The latest fur creations in Russian squirrel, mink and ermine were softly feminine with gently flared backs and full sleeves. The hip length and new 38-inch coat were both displayed. Highlight of the fur fashions was a hooded model of snow white Winter ermine.

ROMANTIC AND DRAMATIC

Romantic and dramatic were the formal gowns, sheer strapless white nylon with sequin scalloped bertha collar and full skirt; crisp plaid taffeta crinoline style; Grecian gold crepe with full-circled skirt and a gray triple sheer crepe with pearl embroidered net yoke were among the most noticeable.

The millinery featured the new Watteau shape trimmed with ribbon, flowers, veiling, and delightful little dance hats were coronets of flowers.

In a "touch of June" the bridesmaids in pale yellow and mauve taffeta dresses with crownless net ruffled mohair picture hats were a perfect foil for the bride in her white brocaded taffeta dress with bustle and train, and tiny coronet of orange blossoms holding her embroidered illusion veil.

A commentary on the styles was given by Miss Ida Bianco as each model appeared and Mr. Philip Hughes played the organ throughout the show. Afternoon tea was served during the intermission.

Models were all members of the Hudson's Bay staff who had been trained by Florence Clough. They were Mrs. E. McConechy, Mrs. Betty Dorman, Mrs. G. Brock, Mrs. M. McIntyre and Misses J. Harper, Eva Simpson, Joan Harris, Yvonne Trottier, D. Sylvester, Dorothy Watson and Joan Edgar.

The women's organizations which will share in the proceeds from the show include the Queen Alexandra Solarium Junior League, W.A. to City Welfare and Children's Aid Society, Mount Douglas Girls' Hi-Y, Jubilee Hospital Alumnae, South Saanich Women's Institute, Junior Auxiliary, B.C. Protestant Orphanage, Catholic Women's League, Evening Group First United Church, Jubilee Hospital Auxiliary, Beta Sigma Phi XI Chapter, Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association, Junior Auxiliary to St. Joseph's Hospital, Victorian Order of Nurses, all chapters of the I.O.D.E.

Beer Plebiscite Change Is Asked

A resolution from the Metropolitan W.A. asking that the present system of granting beer plebiscites to individual polling divisions be changed was endorsed by the Local Council of Women at the meeting in Y.W.C.A. yesterday and will be forwarded to the Provincial Government.

Mrs. Bertha Parsons presided at the meeting and also reported in detail on the present appeal for food for children in Europe. Mrs. Parsons read a letter of thanks from the Women's Voluntary Service in Britain acknowledging the arrival of a shipment of clothing sent by the council. Donations of clothing are still being received at the Metropolitan Church hall and another shipment will be sent overseas the latter part of this month.

A letter was read from the Lake Hill Women's Institute regarding the handling of food in stores and Miss Marjorie Baird and Miss Isla Tuck were asked to discuss this matter with the Union Health Board and report back to the council.

Mrs. A. P. Rayment reported on the recent successful bridge tea, stating that approximately $58 had been realized.

It was announced that the annual meeting would be held on February 18 and 19 in the recreation room at the Y.W.C.A. Mrs. G. Holt will convene the tea at the annual meeting and would appreciate donations.

Mrs. F. G. Grevette, a member of the Calgary Local Council of Women, was welcomed to the meeting.

Ask Gov't to Reimpose Price Control, Subsidies

At a public meeting sponsored by the Canadian Association of Consumers, Victoria Branch, held at the Canadian Legion Hall last evening, a resolution was passed urging the Government to reimpose price controls and subsidies and urging that the present prices of food, house building materials, clothing and fuel be drastically reduced.

The resolution which was introduced by Mr. P. Rayment, read in part: "Whereas the continued rise in the cost of living is seriously affecting the standard of living of the Canadian people causing serious hardship to those citizens receiving low wages and salaries and other low income groups on fixed pensions and; whereas, the advance in prices has reached serious proportions since the removal of controls and subsidies; thereby, be it resolved that this public meeting of Victoria citizens urges the Government to reimpose controls and subsidies and further urges that present prices of the necessities of life including food, house building materials, clothing and fuel be drastically reduced and be it further resolved that we urge the Government to impose a graduate tax on corporate profits in or to drain off the present exorbitant profit-taking to provide part of the funds for the necessary subsidies."

During the evening two members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce discussed the pros and cons of subsidies. Mr. Milt Cloke, speaking in favor of subsidies, spoke of the people on low incomes and fixed incomes such as the Old Age Pensioners who are unable to live within their incomes with food prices at their present level. He said that subsidies were one answer to keeping the country from depression and chaos.

Mr. Fred Norris, who spoke against the reimposition of subsidies, gave an account of how price control and subsidies started in Canada and the reasons for them. Mr. Norris pointed out that the public generally did not realize that price control was being maintained by Government subsidies. He said that Government subsidies are not democratic inasmuch as the Government has certain control of industry and there is a tendency to destroy initiative in industry.

Mrs. Bertha Parsons presided at the meeting.

It was decided that copies of the resolution passed be sent to the Prime Minister of Canada, Hon. R. W. Mayhew and Canadian Consumers Association, at Ottawa.

W.A. to Britannia Branch No. 7, Canadian Legion, will meet in the clubroom on Tuesday at 8 p.m. Mr. David McKee, secretary for the British Columbia Provincial Command, will address the meeting.

Pancakes Hold Spotlight Today

Pancakes coming up! Today is Shrove Tuesday. So, get your griddle ready to turn out stacks of those golden-brown rounds of deliciousness!

EASY PANCAKE RECIPE

Here's a good basic recipe that makes 14 to 16 medium pancakes: Two cups ready-mix for pancakes, 2¼ cups milk.

1. Just add milk to unsifted pancake mix all at once and stir lightly.

2. Pour quarter-cup of batter for each pancake onto a hot, lightly greased griddle.

3. Bake to a golden brown, turning only once.

For extra rich pancakes, add one beaten egg and 2 tablespoons melted butter or other fat to pancake batter. For buckwheat cakes, use 2 cups buckwheat ready-mix and 2½ cups milk, following the above directions.

FOR PERFECT PANCAKES

1. Measure ingredients carefully. All measurements are level; use standard measuring cup.

2. Stir only until flour is moistened. Over-stirring makes a less tender cake. The little lumps in the batter will come out in baking.

3. Be sure griddle is correct temperature. The griddle is just hot enough when a drop of water will bounce for a second before evaporating or when a spoonful of batter browns on one side in one minute.

4. Grease griddle very lightly using an unsalted fat. Pancakes will not stick to a griddle that has been properly seasoned. To season a griddle, cover it with a thin layer of unsalted fat or oil; heat griddle until fat begins to smoke; turn off and let griddle stand overnight. Remove excess fat before baking pancakes. Never scour a griddle without seasoning it again.

5. Pour batter for each pancake on the griddle quickly. Spooning the batter is not recommended, because the first spoonful starts to bake before the second one can be added.

6. Turn pancakes only once. Bake until cakes are covered with bubbles and edges look dry. Turn cakes and bake until brown on other side. Don't pat cakes or turn them more than once.

7. Serve pancakes "hot off the griddle." Stacking the cakes and letting them stand tends to make them soggy.

Food Not Salaries Is Aim Of Child Feeding Program

Mrs. D. B. Sinclair, Canadian representative of the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (I.C.E.F.) explained today how proceeds from the Canadian Appeal for Children will be spent in Canada to send food and medical supplies to the children in war-devastated countries. The appeal, which opened yesterday, seeks to collect 10 million dollars.

"The absolute maximum of funds entrusted to the I.C.E.F. is spent on food and much needed medical supplies," Mrs. Sinclair said. The Fund has avoided building a staff. It will keep its administration costs to a minimum and spend the money on food, not salaries."

MRS. SINCLAIR

Wherever possible the fund has called on existing organizations to supply technical duties instead of employing a separate staff of its own. For instance, the nutritionists of the Food and Agricultural Organization (F.A.O.), who have worked out minimum caloric requirements and diets giving the maximum nourishment and protection, gave their findings to the I.C.E.F. The World Health Organization loaned its advisers. Dr. Martha M. Eliot, Associate Director of the United States Children's Bureau in Washington, made two trips to Europe last Spring and Summer to survey the needs of the various countries for the I.C.E.F. but is not a permanent, paid adviser to the fund.

I.C.E.F. assets consist of money turned over by U.N.R.R.A., contributions from governments, and voluntary contributions such as those derived from the Canadian Appeal for Children.

The fund is administered by an executive board consisting of the representatives of 26 nations, of which Canada is one. The executive board selects ten of its members to form the program committee. Canada is a member of both these committees and has been chosen chairman of the program committee for 1948. Thus Mrs. Sinclair is Canadian representative of the I.C.E.F. and is also chairman of the program committee.

"No country receives aid until its needs have been investigated by the I.C.E.F.," Mrs. Sinclair said. "Requests for assistance are submitted to the program committee which recommends allocations to the executive board which takes the final decision."

The I.C.E.F.'s guiding principle in making allocations is the one laid down by the General Assembly at the time it created the fund: "Distribution will be on the basis of need, without discrimination because of race, creed, nationality status, or political belief." High priority, however, is to be given to children of countries which have been the victims of aggression.

"Before any relief program is begun," continued Mrs. Sinclair, "an agreement must be signed with the government receiving aid; undertaking to provide certain facilities for group feeding, such as buildings, staff to prepare and serve the meals, etc. Also, the receiving country is expected to provide whatever local foodstuffs are available, such as potatoes, bread and cereals to supplement the foods which I.C.E.F. will supply—chiefly milk, fats, meat and fish, etc. An important part of the agreement is an undertaking by the receiving government that I.C.E.F. field staffs shall have access to inspect the preparation and distribution of food supplies."

The principle on which the fund operates is self-help. Mrs. Sinclair stressed the international concept of the program. "This is a co-operative emergency measure by the United Nations to save the children through an immediate program of child feding and medical care. Countries contribute what they can. Not all countries have food or money for export. For example, France is donating French francs which can only be spent in France and these francs pay the expenses of I.C.E.F. European headquarters in Paris. Denmark is supplying quantities of the tuberculosis immunization drug, BCG. Norway and Newfoundland are donating cod liver oil. Poland and Czecho-Slovakia are giving sugar. The United States is the largest supplier of powdered milk and fats, meat comes from Australia and meat and fish from Canada. Many countries are also running campaigns similar to The Canadian Appeal for Children.

A portion of I.C.E.F.'s budget is for shipping charges. The fund pays the shipping charges on everything it sends to a port in the receiving country.

Mrs. Sinclair showed a recent report from Maurice Pate, executive director of I.C.E.F., on his visits to Poland, Czecho-Slovakia and Hungary. He reported that in all three countries, programs based on I.C.E.F. supplies are well under way and he is convinced that the supplies are being fairly and impartially distributed with no religious, political or any other form of discrimination. Unfortunately, the number of children receiving supplementary aid through school feeding and other kitchens is too small considering the number who seriously need this food. "I wish every donor could see the zealous and appreciative way these school youngsters, many thin-legged and wan, voraciously consume their small cup of soup. Some way must be found to make it bigger and put more calories in it," concluded Mr. Pate.

The Canadian Appeal for Children will provide good Canadian food, bought in Canada and sent through I.C.E.F. to assist children in Europe and Asia on a path to better health.

A hurried consultation, and the script was abandoned temporarily. Instead of being athletic at a country club, Jimmy shows off his stuff at a Y.M.C.A. gymnasium.

CHATTERER GROWS TOO CURIOUS

Everybody knows how curious Peter Rabbit is. He forever is poking his wabbly little nose in where it has no business to be, and as a result Peter forever is getting into trouble. Whenever Chatterer the Red Squirrel has heard a new story about Peter and the scrapes his curiosity has got him into, Chatterer has said that Peter got no more than he deserved. As for himself, he might be curious about a thing he saw for the first time, but he had too much sense to meddle with it until he knew all about it. So Chatterer had come to be thought very smart, quite too smart to be caught in a trap—at least, to be caught in an ordinary trap.

What Could They Be?

Now, many people manage to make their neighbors think they are a great deal smarter than they really are, and Chatterer is one of this kind. If some of his neighbors could have peeped into Farmer Brown's cornerib the morning after Farmer Brown's boy found the telltale corncob so carelessly dropped by Chatterer they would have have been surprised. They would have been sprprised. They would have seen Chatterer the Red Squirrel, the hoaster, he of the sharp wits, showing quite as much curiosity as ever possessed Peter Rabbit.

Chatterer had come over to the cornerib as usual to get his daily supply of corn. As usual, he had raced about over the great pile of yellow corn. Quite suddenly his sharp eyes spied something that they hadn't seen before. It was down on the floor of the cornerib quite near the door. Chatterer was sure that it hadn't been there the day before. It was a very queer-looking thing—very queer, indeed. And then he spied another queer-looking thing near it, only this was very much smaller. What could they be? They didn't move. He ran few steps toward them and scolded, just as he scolds anything new he finds out of doors. Still they didn't move. He ran around on a little ledge where he could look right down on the queer things. He was sure now that they were not alive. The biggest one he could see all through. Inside was something to eat. The littlest thing was round and flat, with funny bits of wire on top. It looked as if it was made of wood and in the sides were little round holes too small for him to put his head through.

"Leave them alone," said a small voice inside Chatterer.

"But I want to see what they are and find out all about them," said Chatterer.

"No good ever comes of meddling with things you don't know about," said the small voice.

"But they are such queer-looking things and they're not alive. They can't hurt me," said Chatterer.

Nevertheless, he ran back to the pile of corn and tried to eat. Somehow he had lost his appetite. He couldn't take his eyes off those two queer things down on the floor.

"Better keep away," warned the small voice inside.

"It won't do any harm to have a closer look at them," said Chatterer.

So, once more he scrambled down from the pile of corn, and little by little drew nearer to the two queer things. The nearer he got the more harmless they looked. Finally he reached out and smelled of the smallest. Then he turned up his nose. "Smells of mice," muttered Chatterer, "just common barn mice." Then he reached out a paw and touched it. "Pooh," said he, "it's nothing to be afraid of." Just then he touched one of the little wires and there was a sudden snap. It frightened Chatterer so that he scurried away. But he couldn't stay away. You see, he hadn't put his paw in at one of the little holes or it might have done some harm. Pretty soon he was back again meddling with those little wires on top. Every once in a while there would be a snap and he would scamper away. It was very scary and great fun. By and by the thing wouldn't snap any more and then Chatterer grew tired of his queer plaything and began to wonder about the other queer thing. No harm had come from the first one, so he was sure no harm could come from the other.

SCIENCE has proved there are certain food elements everyone needs for health. If there aren't enough of them in a child's food, serious things can happen—such as stunted growth, soft bones, poor teeth, faulty nerves, loss of appetite, defective eyesight.

Ovaltine supplements the diet with elements frequently deficient in ordinary foods. Three servings of Ovaltine furnish a significant portion of a child's daily requirements of Vitamins A, B1, C, D, Riboflavin (B2), and Niacin and Minerals Calcium, Phosphorus and Iron.

In addition it provides the basic food substances—complete proteins to build muscle, nerve and body cells—high-energy foods for vitality and endurance. It thus acts as an insurance against food deficiencies that retard normal growth.

So if your child eats poorly, is thin, underpar, perhaps nervous, why not try delicious Ovaltine for normal growth and better appetite.

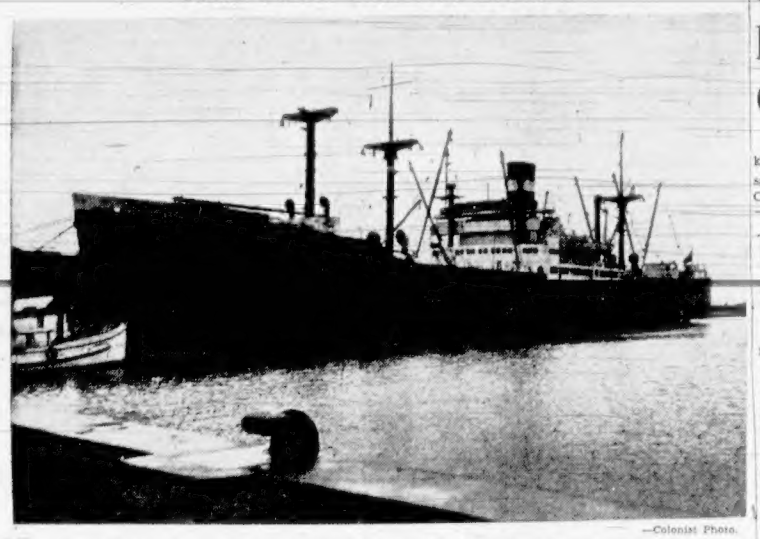
Trim Vessel Sets New Record



—Colonist Photo.

Apart from her trim appearance, there is something special about above-pictured combination cargo-passenger vessel Laurentia, of Donaldson Line. She is first ship of company fleet to make trip from United Kingdom to British Columbia coast in one month. Vessel docked here Sunday afternoon, discharged 100 tons of cargo here yesterday morning, and early in afternoon proceeded to Vancouver. Her speed to this coast averaged 17 knots. Affairs of ship, while here, were handled by R. Cumberbirch, of Rithet Consolidated Limited.

Famed Swedish Liner On Last Atlantic Run

Marine News

The Drottningholm of the Swedish American Line, on her last westbound voyage under the Swedish flag, docked at New York yesterday with 633 passengers, including 56 refugees, on board.

The return trip of the Drottningholm on February 13 will bring to a close a significant chapter in the history of the Swedish American Line in which the trim yacht-like vessel has had an important part. Nearly 200,000 passengers have crossed on the Drottningholm since she steamed out of Gothenburg Harbor 28 years ago.

Originally the Virginian, the Drottningholm was purchased and completely reconditioned by the line in 1920. She made her first trip from Gothenburg on May 29 that year, and has been the company's mainstay in the North Atlantic service.

In 1942 she was the first ship chartered by the United States Government for the exchange of diplomatic personnel and later, under the neutral flag of Sweden, carried wounded prisoners of war and civilians uprooted by the world conflict, between ports in Europe, South Africa, India and New York.

Capt. John Nordlander, commander-designee of the new motorliner Stockholm, will be in command of the ship until she is turned over to her new owners, a Panamanian company, in the service of which she will operate between Italy and South America.

Jobs Scarce

The 150 shipyard workers released from V.M.D. last week may have difficulty obtaining immediate re-employment, it was intimated yesterday by C. A. Mudge, manager of the National Employment Service office here.

"The layoff came at a bad time," he commented, adding: "The employment situation is pretty quiet right now."

Men involved in the shipyard layoff started to appear at the employment office Saturday, and the number was increased yesterday.

Plan Meeting

Members of the Victoria Passengermen's Association—including representatives of practically all transportation and shipping firms of the area—will meet February 19 at the Douglas Hotel, starting at 6 p.m.

Guest speaker will be E. G. Rowebottom, deputy minister of trade and industry, reports James "Jim" Findlay, in charge of publicity.

Trade Revived

The seaborne lumber trade to East Coast ports, dormant during the war, has been revived.

Shipments have been made to United States Gulf ports, including Houston, Tampa, Mobile and New Orleans, and to Bostog, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

For the last two years, British Columbia lumber has been shipped East by rail, but with adjustment of freight differentials, waterborne shipments enjoy a lower rate.

Continuation of shipments, exporters said, depends upon intercoastal freight rates remaining lower than rail rates.

Alaska Tour

For the third consecutive year, Pan-Pacific Good Neighbor Tours, Inc., of Seattle, is offering its annual Alaska tour to persons who want to see all of the northern country.

The de luxe, escorted, all-expense tour of "The Last Frontier" was originated by the Seattle organization in 1946.

Tour guests will assemble at Seattle, June 28, and in 55 days will see all there is to be seen and enjoy all there is to be enjoyed in Alaska. It is noted that never before has Alaska had so much to offer in recreation, pleasure and education.

Submit Brief

The Commercial Telegraphers' Union (A.F.L.), Vancouver branch, yesterday submitted a brief to Transport Minister Chevrier and the Canadian Maritime Commission asking amendments to the Canada Shipping Act.

A union spokesman claimed radio communication protection is in danger of being "further withdrawn" from hundreds of passengers of British Columbia coastal vessels. He said many coastwise ships are not required to carry radio apparatus and a qualified operator, while on others freight clerks double as operators.

Gyro Members Hear Talks On Ideas War

"We are facing a problem we can't kill with bullets or atom bombs," said Brig. W. G. Beeman to the Gyro Club yesterday in an address dealing with the World Moral Rearmament movement, its founding and activities.

He intimated the big problem did not lie in Russia, communism or industrial strife, but rather in the hearts of all individuals.

Brig. Beeman was one of several speakers at the meeting, each a member of the group now touring Canada. The meeting was conducted by guest speaker Major V. Erickson, who was introduced by club member George Gregory.

The world Moral Rearmament organization, Maj. Erickson said, was started in 1921. It's present worldwide drive was organized at a meeting held recently at Richmond, Virginia.

Purpose of the organization, it was explained, was to put forth a concentrated and unified fight against hunger, hate and hopelessness. Participating in this phase of the discussions was Col. M. Hore-Ruthven.

"The war of ideas is raging all over the world, and we must all become soldiers for the side we think right," said Major-General A. Lesaffre, of Brussels, Belgium, and retired from the Belgian Army.

Next meeting of the club will be held Monday at Melody Lane, starting at 6:30 p.m. Members' wives have been invited to the program. entertainment at which will be provided by the Gilbert and Sullivan Society.

THE WORLD'S FUTURE IS BEING DECIDED NOW

GIVE TO THE CANADIAN APPEAL FOR CHILDREN...

OUR TOMORROWS depend on what happens to the world's children TODAY. In ruined lands around the globe there are millions of them in misery—scrambling for shreds of food on garbage dumps, shivering in rags. On the continent of Europe, half the children born since the war are already dead of malnutrition. Those who survive—there and elsewhere—are desperately in need of food and clothing. They need schooling, too, for their neglected minds grow as sick as their withered bodies . . .

"They are the future
If they are not saved, our world is lost"

Canadian Appeal for Children commences its campaign on February 9th to meet the challenge of these desperate and immediate needs. This is a campaign by the people of Canada, with a minimum objective of $10,000,000, to provide food, clothing and school supplies for the children — safeguard the health of expectant and nursing mothers — in devastated lands around the world.

Wherever possible, all donations will be used for the purchase of Canadian goods, which will be distributed under the direction of responsible United Nations operating agencies.

Organizations across Canada are co-operating in this campaign. It has national approval; is supported by industry, agriculture, education, labour, service clubs, cultural and other organizations.

YOUR HELP IS NEEDED NOW. Your contribution — received at any Canadian BANK — will mean life instead of death for the children — and hope for the future peace of the world. You sympathize. You want to give. But good will and good wishes are not enough. Since you may not be canvassed don't let failure to act be on your conscience — turn your sympathy and good wishes into a tangible contribution — go to your bank NOW and GIVE.

If you as an individual or as a member of an organization are anxious to take an active part in this campaign, please get in touch with

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (AP). — Stocks edged forward on a selective basis today, apparently aided by rallying grains, although the session was the second lowest in five months and many market leaders stumbled.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was unchanged at 62 where it was only ¼ of a point above the low since last June. Of 921 issues appearing, 386 rose and 310 fell.

Union Pacific was up 3 points at 161 on a few sales. Among scattered gainers were Douglas Aircraft at 52¼, Godrich 52¼, American Tobacco "B" 85 and Gul Oil 60¾. Improved were Standard Oil (N.J.), Texas Co., United Air Lines, Boeing and General Electric.

COST LESS TODAY than in 1939
GENERAL ELECTRIC LAMPS

Here is a household necessity that hasn't gone up in price. During the war and post-war years of rising prices the cost of popular types of G-E Lamps has been reduced by 20 to 25 per cent.

Not only have prices been greatly reduced but quality has been improved. The light output per watt is now greater. You can be confident that when you buy G-E Lamps today, you buy more light, for less money, than in 1939.

Many Indian Potentates Really Go to the Dogs

BOMBAY, Feb. 9 (NANA). — Robbers who live like princes and princes who act like robbers are nothing new in the world's turbulent history, but a number of Indian princes, however, set a new precedent recently by stealing in a manner quite unbecoming their rank.

A courtier of the Maharajah of Rajpipla told today how neighboring Indian princes helped themselves to the Nawab of Junagadh's collection of rare dogs when that Moslem potentate fled his throne in the centre of Hindu India, on the approach of Indian Union Forces.

When His Highness Mahabat Khan went into exile after failing to keep control of his predominantly Hindu state, he left behind a kennel of 1,200 costly dogs, many specially bought in Switzerland and France and at famed kennels elsewhere in Europe. A staff of 90 men was retained to care for this, the world's largest one-man collection of pets.

As soon as word got out that Mahabat Khan had decamped, the 60 Hindu princes whose principalities neighbor Junagadh, sent agents to the state capital with orders to bring back as many of the coveted animals as possible. Before the Indian army tanks rumbled into the dusty streets of Junagadh City, packs of howling barking dogs were transported by ship, plane and car to the kennels of Radhanpur, Idar, Rakot and other Hindu states.

The Government of India has now announced that it intends to auction off 159 pedigreed dogs, all that are left of the looted Junagadh kennel.

"A WILD GOOSE CHASE"

When one speaks of someone leading another on a wild goose chase one speaks with the flavor of modern slang, but the substance of time-honored literature.

Shakespeare used this phrase which in fact is similar to an expression of the first century Latin satirist, Persius. It is in the second act of "Romeo and Juliet" that Shakespeare popularized our saying in its exact wording:

"Nay, if they wits run the wild-goose chase, I have done."

The great Spanish contemporary of Shakespeare, Cervantes, in his classic, "Don Quixote," has these words:

"Why do you lead me a wild-goose chase?"

And in the "Journal" of the American naturalist, poet and essayist, Henry David Thoreau, under date of March 21, 1840, we find the following, which sheds some light on the habits of the wild goose:

"The wild goose is more cosmopolite than we; he breaks his fast in Canada, takes a luncheon in the Susquehanna, and plumes himself for the night in a Louisiana bayou.

Ron [illegible] Oak Bay and Ivor Smith, Legion [illegible] each added [illegible] a play-off between the two [illegible] to decide [illegible] Victoria West, first half winners, for the league championship.

Both teams showed an offensive weakness in Saturday's game, with the Bays having an edge in the opening half and Esquimalt taking over after the resumption of play.

Wiseman put the Bays in front in the first half. His cross from the right wing was snapped off by Goalie Wally Rowe but the ball rebounded off a defender into the net.

Art Young got credit for the equalizer after 30 minutes of the second half when he pushed the ball into the twine after Rookie Wright mis-kicked in attempting to clear and Goalie Patterson fumbled the loose ball.

Eagles, Marigold In Juvenile Wins

Eagles and Marigold marked up wins in Division One, juvenile soccer matches played Sunday, the former blanking Heaney's, 1-0 and the Submarinettes trimming Esquimalt, 3-1.

The Eagles victory over the second-place Haulers gives the Blue-men a stranglehold on the league title. Only a goal was scored by Ronnie Pearce in the first half.

Heaney's dominated play in the second half but were unable to pierce the strong defence of their opponents.

Pentice, Douglas and Wright stood out for the winners with Sullivan, Wilkinson, Walker and Hull playing well for the Haulers.

Strangehan with two goals and Heath were the scorers for Marigold and Smith netted for the losers. Bertrand Esquimalt goalkeeper made two sparkling saves of penalty kicks.

W.I.L. Approves 1948 Schedule

SEATTLE, Feb. 9 (AP)—Western International Baseball League directors here for their Winter meeting today approved the 1948 schedule for the eight-team circuit.

Playing dates will be announced officially next Saturday, President Robert Abel of Tacoma said.

From unofficial sources however it was learned that the season will open April 16 and close Labor Day, with each team playing 154 games. The split-week schedule will be retained. A Shaughnessy play-off among the four top clubs will be held immediately after the end of the regular season.

Adoption of the schedule was disposed of at the morning session, with only a few changes in the preliminary draft worked out at the last meeting, Abel said.

This afternoon was devoted to a baseball school, at which two of the league's representatives passed on instructions given them at a similar school for national baseball umpiring in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Also attending the meeting were William Myhan, general manager of Portland Beavers; Earl Sheely and Jo Jo White, general manager and playing manager of Seattle Rainiers.

LUCKY FOR LOVE

By JANE DIXON

COPYRIGHT 1940, BY JANE DIXON

CHAPTER IV—Continued

"Brown?" Marilyn appeared to ponder. Actually she knew on the instant she was not going to change from a grey house to a brown house. The change must be complete, a transition with a lift to it. "No, let's not choose a somber color. Our [illegible] for the better, so let's be gay about it. I'm for the ivory and for the shutters a color as near the one they are now as we can find, a blue-green. It's a lovely color. Are there any more votes for ivory?"

"You hit the nail right on the head, daughter," Mr. Marsh nodded appreciatively. "I've seen the house painted that way a million times—in my imagination."

"Houses can't be painted with imagination," said Mrs. Marsh. "They have to be painted with paint." the ghost of Clara still lingered.

CHAPTER V

Mrs. Marsh stood before a pier glass mirror in an upstairs bedroom. The glass had been purchased from a second-hand store for Clara, who liked full-length views of herself. The frame, a fine satin, old walnut, had needed re-doing, and Clara had gilded it with gold paint from the five and dime store.

Marilyn, kneeling on the floor, was pinning up the hem of her mother's dress.

"How's that, Mums?" she asked, studying the effect in the mirror.

"It looks nice but—don't you think it's maybe a mite too short?"

"Not a mite, nor even half a mite, Mumsy. You have pretty feet and trim ankles. I've been noticing while I pinned up your dress. No use hiding them."

"Baby, how you do go on," Mrs. Marsh denied, but Marilyn knew she was pleased. "I used to be very proud of my feet and my ankles when I was a girl. I wore size three, double A, and my ankles were quite shapely."

"They still are," Marilyn insisted. "Silk stockings—that dark shade they're wearing and a pair of first-rate shoes, good leather and smart cut, and you'll be a girl all over again. Now then, I've finished pinning the hem. Let me see how you look, Mums. Why, the dress is a natural—I mean it's right for you. Graceful lines and the black and white is smart. It gives you distinction."

Mrs. Marsh moved closer to the mirror. She did not believe her eyes. Could clothes make such a difference? Was that she herself looking out from the gilt frame, that well-dressed woman in black crepe with white leaves sprinkled over it and touches of soft white chiffon at the throat?

"I—I don't know what to say." She kept running her hands over the dress to make sure it was real. "This is an expensive dress, Baby. You shouldn't have done it. I've got my blue foulard—"

"The blue foulard is taking a well-earned rest," Marilyn announced. "It's worn to a thread. If you drive it any further, it is going to part company in a dozen places and drop off, maybe on Main Street."

Mrs. Marsh laughed. A queer little cackle, rusty from disuse. Marilyn couldn't remember when last she heard her mother laugh.

At supper Mrs. Marsh, in a fresh house dress almost dropped the mashed potatoes.

"Dearie me," she said, retrieving the dish just in time to save Bill's head from a potato barrage, "I clean forgot. There's a letter from Clara. It's on the hall table. Run and fetch it, William."

"Aw, can't we wait till after supper? I'm hungry." Bill was busy with a third frankfurter.

"Go fetch it this minute. A person'd think you'd want to hear what your own sister has to say—and her away off in New York."

Marilyn said, "I hope she wrote some news about herself. We've had two letters and a postcard and so far all we've heard is 'marvelous.' The train trip was marvelous; the reception in the station was marvelous; the people she's met are marvelous; New York is too, too marvelous. Did she say what she's doing, who she's met and seen, what her plans are?"

"No, she didn't say—only that she's so busy she could only write a few lines to let us know she was well and having a——"

Marilyn finished, "a marvelous time."

"How did you know, Baby?" This time Bill's head was endangered by a platter of baked Summer squash.

"Easy, Mums. You can't go wrong on 'marvelous' with Clara."

The little group at the family table finished their supper, then went to the verandah. Their conversation was of the ordinary happenings about them: how father was progressing with the house-paint; that a neighbor across the street was canning pickles; that Bill's bicycle needed a new tire. They could not know that, rushing toward them through the night, in a mail car from the East, was another letter, a letter that would change the entire course of their lives.

* * *

In New York City, at ten o'clock in the morning, the offices of the Metropole Amusement Corporation struggled into their stride and were sputtering along at that erratic clip peculiar to theatrical enterprise.

Al Martino, field representative, hurried through the outer reaches of Metropole, flung brief but colorful greetings to the right and left of him, arrived with a bang at the door of the chief, Palmer Watson, president of the concern.

"Stop banging on the door," came a low growl from within.

Martino grinned. The Chief was in fine form. He "handled easy" when he was this way.

"What do you mean by making such a damned clatter?" the Chief wanted to know when Al came and lounged on a corner of the great chromium and plate-glass desk. "You want to get my goat? Well, you've got it. So spill!"

"Now, Chief, you know I never play with wild animals. All I want is for you to take me off this Millville doll I've been pushing around town and give me a job that winds up somewhere besides the psychopathic ward."

"Who's going to a psychopathic ward?" Palmer Watson was a large, red man with a frightening scowl.

"I am," Al said, disregarding the scowl, "unless you take me out of the woods and give me some decent work to do."

"Listen to the fellow! I put him in the contest department. I give him a beautiful girl, a contest winner. I tell him to show her the town, theatres, cocktail lounges, cafes, Broadway, Fifth Avenue, Coney Island, the Fair, night life, makes the town tick. Now he comes asking for another job. Talks psychopathic wards, decent work [illegible]."

"Not quite—but soon, unless you switch me quick. On the square, Chief, I'm fed up with this blonde beef-trust Clara Marsh. Let one of the other boys steer her for a while."

"For why should you ask me such a crazy question? For why? You have love trouble, maybe?"

Al made a gesture of disdain.

"You know better than that," he said. "What I think of these Bouquets of Beauty—I'd rather have a nail in the foot."

"What's wrong with 'em?" thundered the Chief. "Most beautiful girls in America. Most glamorous girls in—in—"

"Six counties," Al finished. "They are dumb, that's what's the matter with 'em. I hate dumb daisies. They give me mal de mer."

"Maldee—, mal—de—."

"It's what you get when the boat rocks."

"Umm. Now this Miss—Miss—"

"Marsh. Clara Marsh. Blonde hope of the Bijou."

"This Miss Clara Marsh, she is what you call a bee-u-ty. Perfect blonde. Perfect figure—a little ripe maybe—but plenty like 'em so. Maybe she don't give out. Maybe she don't like the bright lights. Maybe she's too quiet."

Al laughed sardonically.

He said: "Chief, if she likes 'em any better, we'd have to take her out and shoot her. That's where the trouble comes in. That's why I'm yelling help, and take it from me, I'm yelling. Chief, that blonde is sure a glutton for what goes on in the big town after dark. I managed to trundle her back to her hotel at six this morning, but it was a struggle."

"So? Six, huh?" The Chief's scowl deepened. "Who pays that kind of expenses. We promised to show our winners the town, not buy it for 'em."

(To Be Continued)

Winnipeg Grain

WINNIPEG, Feb. 9 (CP).—Coarse grain futures prices made fairly substantial gains on moderate buying by commission houses, shippers and locals today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. A pronounced contraction in selling was noted during a moderate session. Strength on the Chicago market also aided advances here.

Rye futures, reflecting Chicago strength, moved for maximum gains of 10 cents in the deferred month during early trade. Buying was mostly of a commission house nature, with evidence of small American accounts' demand. The deferred month retained its maximum advance. May and July scored good gains.

Class two wheat prices advanced four cents from Saturday.

No export business was reported.

BOND MARKET

MONTREAL, Feb. 9 (CP).—Trading was extremely dull on the bond market here today. Dominions displayed a firm tone throughout the list while there were some inquiries for Provincial-municipal shorts and Quebec municipal commission issues.

In rails, C.N.R. 2¾'s of '67 were a shade easier. Montreal Tramways 5's of '55 were off fractionally in utilities.

Hits Government Delay In Granting Increases

SAANICHTON, Feb. 9.—Criticism of "procrastination" by the Federal Government in dealing with Canadian Legion recommendations for cost-of-living bonuses or increases in pensions and allowances for veterans was made by Robert Macnicol, public relations officer of the B.C. Command of the Canadian Legion, at a meeting of the Saanich Peninsula Branch in the Orange Hall here tonight.

Mr. Macnicol said that it was "shameful" that veterans and war widows were being asked to exist on one dollar a day when the cost of living had increased at least 50 per cent.

He said an offer of up to ten per cent or even 15 per cent increase could not be accepted willingly by the Legion, and characterized the offer made by Prime Minister Mackenzie King last December as "an insult to the Legion and Canadian veterans."

"On July 16, in the House of Commons, every member of the Government voted against veterans' groups suffering extreme hardships because of high living costs. They did this at the request of Prime Minister King."

Mr. Macnicol stated that veterans in B.C. today "are worse off than old-age pensioners," both in the amount of pensions and in the matter of free medical treatment.

He will visit Metchosin, Malahat and Cobble Hill branches on Thursday and Sooke next Monday.

Easter Lilies Defy Island Snowstorms

CHEMAINUS, Feb. 9.—The rest of the Island may be shivering from recent snowfalls, but near Chemainus Easter lilies are in bud.

Earnie Baines, who lives on Round Island, property of Rear Admiral Rollo Mainguy, commanding officer of the Royal Canadian Navy, Esquimalt, recently brought in a bunch of these lilies along with other Spring flowers which are growing on the island.

Campbell River Plans Contest

CAMPBELL RIVER, Feb. 9.—At the weekly Rotary Club luncheon in the fire hall, with the president, Oscar F. Thulin, in the chair, Alex McLean gave a short address on "Community Service."

Rotarians decided to install tenracks on the wharves of small isolated communities, such as Surge Narrows, Redonda Bay and Manson's Landing, to be used for the distrubution of used magazines and reading material in conjunction with the Columbia Coast Mission.

The magazine committee, composed of Arthur Rose, John Williamson and John Lambie, suggested that an essay contest be sponsored by the club, open to all pupils in the schools of District 72. Subject of essay will be "My Hobby," or "A Hobby, Why?" Essays must be confined to 100 words. All pupils between the ages of ten and 18 years will be eligible. Contestants will be in two groups, junior and senior, with first, second and third prizes in each group. All entries must be in by March 17. School principals throughout the district will be asked to co-operate.

"There may be some potential geniuses in the district, and it is just possible that as a result of this contest, we might be able to help some of them over their first obstacles," Mr. Lambie told club members.

Annual Meeting Held in Duncan

DUNCAN, Feb. 9.—Annual meeting of the Vancouver Island Ayrshire Club here heard Dave Young, Dominion livestock fieldman, who spoke on the recent Ayrshire successes at the London Dairy Show.

He also gave some information about the shipment of dairy cattle to China at the present time. Bruce Richardson, district agriculturist, spoke on the value of calf club and C.T.A. work and he said that there was much room for expansion in both these fields on the Island.

Retiring directors were Harry Dawson and John Brown. Elected to replace them were Cmdr. G. S. Windeyer, Duncan, and Capt. C. L. Anderson, Cowichan Station. Charles Dawson, Nanoose Bay, was elected president; D. C. Morton, Duncan, re-elected secretary-treasurer, and G. G. Lomas, Chemainus, and James Baker, Wellington, re-elected as directors.

It was decided to hold the 1948 Red and White Show at Ladysmith, and annual B.C. Ayrshire Field Day would be held at Dawsondale Farm, Nanoose Bay, about Midsummer, it was announced.

Lumber Workers Injured in Blast

PORT ALBERNI, Feb. 9.—George Nelson, 24, and Sam McIlroy, 37, are in hospital at Victoria suffering injuries, mainly to their eyes, result of an explosion at the Sarito Bay logging operations of Bloedel, Stewart & Welch.

Details received here are not conclusive, but it was believed that the men lit a fire for warmth and in some manner gunpowder was ignited.

The men were rushed to Port Alberni by the Bloedel, Stewart & Welch speedboat, the Heron, given emergency treatment at West Coast General Hospital and then rushed by Curly Davidson, local ambulance driver, to Victoria.

DANCE HELD

CHEMAINUS, Feb. 9. — Chemainus Auxiliary and hospital directors were hosts to some 500 people at their annual ball here. Mrs. E. Peerless was responsible for decorations of daffodils and snapdragons.

Nurses Agree To Withdraw Resignations

NANAIMO, Feb. 9.—Resignations of the 21-member nursing staff of the Nanaimo Hospital have been withdrawn and a conciliation board will seek to reach settlement of a wages dispute.

The nurses submitted their resignations last week, to become effective February 11, when their demands for $150 a month were not met. The hospital board offered $140.

Decision to submit the dispute to conciliation followed arrival here of Miss Alice Wright of Vancouver, bargaining agent for the Registered Nurses' Association.

In Vancouver it was announced that further services of a conciliation board may be required if an "informal understanding" between Nanaimo General Hospital directors and nurses fails to result in an acceptable wage contract by Board Chairman Dean F. M. Clement.

He said he would know by Wednesday whether further board meetings will be necessary. Undisclosed terms of settlement have been drawn.

Mines Expert Passes at 42

NANAIMO, Feb. 9. — James M. MacKay, 42, widely-known British Columbia prospector, died in hospital here Sunday. Funeral services will be held at North Gabriola Island Wednesday.

Mr. MacKay, a graduate in mining and civil engineering from the University of British Columbia, was considered one of the foremost in the modern school of scientifically-trained prospectors.

He was a member of the honorary advisory board of the British Columbia and Yukon Chamber of Mines.

Bring In Sawdust For Port Stoves

PORT ALBERNI, Feb. 9.—Situated amid millions of feet of timber, Port Alberni is in the paradoxical position of importing sawdust for fuel.

Once one of the main fuels, sawdust is now in great demand, since the Alberni Pacific Lumber Co., Ltd., went out of the sawdust supply business last Autumn.

Local dealers turned to outside sources, and bring the sawdust in by freight cars for those whose stoves are equipped with sawdust burners.

Dealers have experienced difficulties. They claim freight rates have made it almost impossible for them to sell sawdust at a fair profit, and they have petitioned the City Council. The council in turn has appealed to the C.P.R. district office at Vancouver for lower freight rates.

Community Names Directors of Hall

MESACHIE LAKE, Feb. 9.—A community meeting was held recently in the new community hall for the purpose of electing a committee of five to govern activities of the hall. It was called by the Hillcrest Lumber Co., Ltd., and J. A. C. Drew, company manager, was chairman.

Mr. Drew explained that as the hall was set back a distance from the main roads, a gravelled walk would be placed across the playground. A gravelled road for cars has been completed. The dining-room will be finished shortly, floors sanded and marked for badminton; and street lights installed.

Duties of the committee will be to arrange bookings for community activities, and to look after the hall and grounds.

Members of the committee elected were Mrs. Neil Portelance and Mrs. Carlos Waldie, representing Mesachie Women's Club; Wilber Lee, representing the bunkhouses; John B. Webster and Mr. Joseph Bohemier, representing village residents.

R. Tassie, Peter Orbeim and James Trebett were elected delegates to the Island Carpenters' Council, and will attend a meeting at Nanaimo next Saturday.

The Island Council represents 3,000 carpenters belonging to 14 locals on Vancouver Island and at Powell River. A charter will be presented on Saturday.

Main items of business will be discussion on the policy of bringing skilled tradesmen from displaced persons' camps in Europe to Canada. Second item will be terms for uniform wage and working conditions in the 1948 contract.

Nothing Would Delight The Coalition More than to see the C.C.F. and the L.P.P. fighting each other throughout the Saanich campaign as to who can and who can't campaign to help elect the C.C.F. candidate. Coalition strategists would be thrilled by anything that would divert attention from the government's record of selling out the people, from the need of ALL of the people of Saanich to get together to elect as their chosen legislative spokesman Mr. Colin Cameron, candidate of the C.C.F.

Sorry to disappoint the Coalition, but we are going to make sure there is no issue here. We can do that quite simply by stating the true facts on the Labor-Progressive Party's position in the Saanich by-election, which are as follows:

1. The L.P.P. has withdrawn its own candidate and endorsed the C.C.F. candidate Colin Cameron. This is to avoid splitting the forward-looking, democratic vote and make possible a Cameron victory by a big majority. We are working just as hard to elect Colin Cameron as we would for a candidate of our own party.

2. This we are doing in exercise of our democratic right as a group of citizens, a right which none can take away from us, to urge the electors to vote in a way we feel is in their common interest.

3. We have not asked the C.C.F., nor do we propose in this campaign to ask the C.C.F., for any agreements, formal or tacit, with regard to this election. The unity of the people we seek is a unity at the polls—where progressive people will join to vote for one candidate.

4. Ours is an entirely independent campaign. We are sponsoring our own meetings and broadcasts, issuing our own leaflets and posters, and raising our own funds. This is done entirely in the name of the Saanich Committee of the L.P.P. We have not asked, nor do we have, any authority from Mr. Colin Cameron or his official agent to do any of these things on behalf of his campaign, or on behalf of his organization, the C.C.F.

5. Our legal position in the above has been very carefully checked and there is nothing in existing statutes which prevents us exercising our democratic right to carry on such an independent campaign as outlined above. We have assured Mr. Cameron's official agent, and we publicly repeat, that we will fully co-operate in any steps necessary to remove any shadow of a technical danger to Mr. Cameron's campaign that might arise. No such danger has arisen at all, nor do we expect one will.

No doubt Coalition spokesmen will keep trying to stir up trouble between the C.C.F. and the L.P.P. but we cannot co-operate in this endeavor at all. We are redoubling our efforts to defeat a government which has betrayed the people on prices, social security, taxation, and labor laws.

Solarium, Falling Back on Reserves, Plans to Extend Area of Support

Although the Queen Alexandra Solarium received a special grant of $10,000 from the Provincial Government last year, the institution was forced to dip into its reserves for $30,000, according to the annual report of Walter Luney, president, delivered at the annual meeting of the board of directors in the Empress Hotel yesterday.

They met under Logan Mayhew, vice-chairman of the board.

Mr. Luney's report noted that the estimated deficit for 1948 of $72,000 was a formidable target to shoot at. During the year, the directors realized that if the institution was to carry on at all, considerable alterations had to be undertaken and a program of essential improvements was carried out at a cost of $35,000. This included the construction of a second water reservoir, which, it was hoped, would eliminate the usual Summer water shortage.

The program had not by any means met the need, Mr. Luney noted. "Our medical superintendent has long been advocating treatment at an earlier age and children are being referred much earlier. We are faced with a long list awaiting admission to the babies' ward. Our present ward will not accommodate these children and this problem will have to be faced immediately."

Friends close to the Solarium, particularly the people of Victoria and Vancouver Island, have contributed the greater portion of the money which has kept the Solarium in operation year after year, but with costs rising steadily the chairman considered the directors must now call on those throughout the province who had not previously given support.

It had been considered necessary to again postpone the erection of a new hospital because of high cost, Mr. Luney declared. The $10,000 contribution of the Vancouver Lions Club was being held in reserve for this purpose.

Following the offer of $40,000 from the Victoria Gyro Club, plans were drawn up for the erection of a new nurses' home, but it was found the cost would be about $100,000 so the project was abandoned. The club asked to be relieved of its commitment for $40,000 and finally agreed to allow the sum of $22,000 for construction of two cottage-type units for nurses.

Successful treatment was carried out for the first time last year on three "blue babies" through the efforts of the medical staff and especially of Dr. John Stenstrom, Mr. Luney reported.

Army Headquarters Confirms Major Mosedale's Promotion

Army headquarters at Ottawa has confirmed the appointment of Major Walter J. Mosedale, E.D., to be second-in-command of the First Battalion, The Canadian Scottish Regiment, succeeding Major R. H. Tye, who retired recently, Lt.-Col. R. D. Travis, M.B.E., E.D., officer commanding the regiment, announced yesterday.

MAJOR W. J. MOSEDALE, E.D.

Major Mosedale was commissioned from the ranks in The Scottish prior to the last war. Going on active service with the First Battalion in 1939, he proceeded overseas with the unit.

Early in 1943 he returned to Canada to attend the staff course at Royal Military College, where he remained for nearly a year as a member of the directing staff.

Posted overseas again, he was appointed to the general staff at headquarters First Canadian Army, and served in that formation throughout the campaign in North-west Europe. When The Canadian Scottish was reorganized in 1946 as part of the reserve army, Major Mosedale was appointed to command one of the rifle companies. His new duties will start immediately.

Room for More Young Children Held Urgent Need of Solarium

Nearly 50 per cent of the children at Queen Alexandra Solarium were "cured" during 1947, according to the report of Dr. Glenn Simpson, medical superintendent, submitted to the board of directors at the annual meeting yesterday afternoon.

He noted, however, that there was [illegible] ing for admission.

"For many years," he continued, "we have advocated the admission and treatment of patients at an early age. Our accommodation for children is now 'bulging at the seams.' Our present waiting list of patients is composed almost entirely of these younger children who cannot be admitted because of a shortage of beds for this age group. This problem demands our immediate attention.

"The movement on behalf of crippled children is progressing with an acceleration that is encouraging, but the results achieved are as yet far from satisfactory."

The Queen Alexandra Solarium is not the only institution in British Columbia devoted exclusively to the care of handicapped children, he said.

"I feel the time has arrived when we must get down to rock bottom and attack the problem of the crippled or handicapped child of British Columbia in an enlightened and scientific manner. Too many agencies are working independently and there is too much overlapping in effort and conflicting appeals to [illegible] ment of the whole movement."

The time had come for a Province-wide campaign on behalf of crippled children, Dr. Simpson contended. Whether such a program was implemented by private charity, or local or Provincial Government machinery, the assistance of these children would always be a public matter, depending on the public for financial and moral support, he said, in advocating wide publicity.

T. W. S. Parsons, recently appointed superintendent, also pointed to the number of children waiting patiently and hopefully for help and advocated a planned program for obtaining greater aid.

Miss Peggy Wharton, president of the Junior League, noted that during the fiscal year ending last June, the league had presented a total of $14,600, the revenue of a great number of undertakings under its auspices.

Mrs. A. Kae Massey delivered an extensive report on the contributions of clothing and linen made by the Women's Auxiliary.

S. Dorothy Andrew, R.N., lady superintendent, submitted a report on the administration of the nursing staff.

Two Paintings For Province

Two handsome paintings of British Columbia dogwood and wild rhododendron were presented to the Provincial Government at a brief ceremony yesterday afternoon in the rotunda of the Provincial Library.

Paintings are the work of Mrs. Lillian Sweeney, a member of the Society for the Preservation of Native Plants of British Columbia, and were presented to the Government by the society in appreciation of special legislation passed in 1931 to protect dogwood, and in 1947 to protect native rhododendron.

They were received from Mrs. Hugh McKenzie, society president, by Education Minister W. T. Straith, who spoke of the beautification of highways and parks that had resulted from the society's drive to protect wildflowers from vandalism and thoughtless destruction.

Garden Variety Cabbage Grew in Briton's Head

LONDON, Feb. 9 (CANA). — There is a warehouseman in Lincolnshire who had a cabbage sprouting in his head — a garden-type vegetable cabbage. It's a medical fact.

It seems that the man who unwittingly became a truck farm was reading a newspaper about a week ago. Suddenly he found his sight becoming blurred and his wife advised him to see a doctor. He did so the following day, but had then already lost the sight of his right eye.

He was sent to a hospital where he became a guinea pig for all the examiners and specialists, who still could not find the cause of his trouble. He was X-rayed and the plates showed a growth behind the eyes. The doctors then discovered that a cabbage seed had become lodged behind his eye, and had sprouted. When the Lincolnshire man, H. Stone, had the operation on the eye, the sprout was found to be an inch long. All is normal now, but he's one person who'll never eat or look at a cabbage again!

A comparable thing came to notice in Trinidad. A woman said that some years back she had suddenly acquired a strange feeling as though a jungle was growing in her mouth. She couldn't account for this, so after a couple of days, fearful of the larger denizens of such a forest, she went to her dentist. He found that at the back of her mouth, in a hollow tooth, a tomato seed had lodged and sprouted!

LONDON (CP).—West Ham district residents temporarily vacated their homes while a 500-pound bomb, dropped in 1940, was located and detonated.

2. What is the correct pronunciation of "historic" and "historical"?

4. What does the word "tincture" mean?

5. What is a word beginning with la that means "praiseworthy"?

1. Say, "own the house." The subject parts differ in number, and the verb agrees with the noun nearest it, i.e., sons. 2. Pronounce the o as in of, not as in or. 3. Overrule. 4. A slight trace; vestige. "A new cask will long preserve the tincture of the liquor with which it was first impregnated." Horace. 5. Laudable.
